Two Hayti Residents Killed on Highways

Two Hayti residents were killed in highway accidents over the weekend.

Willie E. Southern, 49, Hayti, was killed Saturday at 8:50 p.m. on highway 84, one half mile east of Hayti.

Charlene Hamilton, 35, Hayti passenger in a car driven by her husband, was killed Sunday at 1 a.m. on route Z in Pemiscot, three miles north of Braggadocia.

Southern was driving a 1960 Ford on the wrong side of the road, the state patrol said, when he struck a 1961 Chevrolet station wagon, driven by James Clifford Hall, 25, Caruthersville, headon.

Three passengers in the Southern car were injured and taken to Pemiscot County hospital in Hayti. Rada Southern, 41, his wife, received fractures of both legs, internal injuries and cuts. She is in a critical condition.

Ray Winchester, 38, Hayti, was injured critically and Claud Winchester, 39, Hayti, was injured seriously.

David Hamilton, 31, Hayti, husband of Charlene Hamilton, was driving a 1963 Chevrolet at a high speed, the patrol said. He lost control, ran off the road and overturned while rounding a curve.

Mrs. Hamilton's body was taken to the T. J. Smith Funeral Home in Hayti.

Her husband was seriously injured and taken to a Memphis hospital.

Richard Reed, 46, East Prairie, received minor injuries in an accident Saturday at 9:30 a.m., on route D, one mile north of the Dogwood community.

James Lipford, 42, East Prairie, was driving a 1966 Pontiac, when a tire blew out and his car struck a 1968 Pontiac, driven by Reed, who went on the shoulder in an attempt to avoid a collision.

Reed was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Five Arrests

Police reported three were charged during the weekend with careless driving. They were described as Benson Forrest, 323 Pam, Willie J. Ellis, 227 Petty, and Joseph Layton, Charleston.

Dusty Houston, East Prairie, was charged with displaying a dangerous weapon and carrying a concealed weapon.

Dewayne Boley, route one, Oran, was charged with disturbing the peace and assault.

Budget Honed To Slender Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon made good today his vow to deliver a balanced budget for fiscal 1971, but its shaky surplus—$1.3 billion on a record $200.8 billion spending total— was pinned on a doubtful prospect of cooperation by Congress.

Nixon's first budget message to Congress bore the marks of his cost-cutting ax. It chopped $5.8 billion from overall defense outlays, down to $73.6 billion for fiscal 1971; or $71.2 billion for strictly military functions. It canceled or cut $2.1 billion worth of domestic programs described as "low priority."

Space spending was squeezed to $3.4 billion in a 12 per cent cutback. To help make ends meet, Nixon announced a speedup, worth $1.2 billion in fiscal 1971, in the Treasury's collection of excise taxes and income taxes withheld by employers.

Nixon asked for other revenue-boosters, some sure to meet heavy resistance in Congress. They included a variety of "user charges," higher postal rates, a vast $751 million disposal of commodities from the national defense stockpile, and the sale of the governmentowned Alaska RWAILROAD FOR UP+ wards of $100 million. The two controversial sales alone represented much more than half his planned surplus.

The 1971 budget was the nation's first to cross the $200 billion mark. Bulging government costs have caused serious slippage in the current fiscal 1970 budget also, Nixon disclosed. With outlays pushing up to $197.9 billion, Nixon said, the planned surplus of $5.9 billion on next June 30 has shriveled to an estimated $1.5 billion.

But Nixon named seven home-front programs including welfare anticrime and antipollution efforts—"our most urgent domestic needs"—for increased funds in fiscal 1971.

"Reform is the watchword of this administration," the message proclaimed. The President went on:

"This ani-inflationary budget begins the necessary process of reordering our national priorities.

"For the first time in two decades, the federal government will spend more money on human resource programs than on national defense."

Despite the money squeeze on the Pentagon, Nixon said his budget will enable the administration "to meet our international responsibilities by seeking an honorable peace in Vietnam, by maintaining sufficient military power to deter potential aggressors, (and) by exploring with the Soviet Union possible limitations on strategic arms ..."

The seven domestic needs labeled "most urgent" were assigned these increases from fiscal 1970 budget totals:

—$500 million to start the Family Assistance program payments, the core of Nixon's proposed massive overhaul of the welfare system. When and if enacted, and brought to full operation, it will cost $4.4 billion a year.

—$275 million to launch the sharing of federal revenues with the hard-pressed states and cities "before the end of 1971." Nixon unveiled the plan last summer with a promise of $500 million in fiscal 1971. Some officials considered that sum almost embarrassingly small; now it has been cut almost in half.

—$310 million for increased anticrime efforts, for a total of $1.257 billion.

—$330 million for air and water pollution abatement, parks and open spaces, for a total of $1.115 billion.

—$764 million for food assistance programs, to a total of $2.278 billion.

—$468 million for transportation facilities, including a modest $80 million start on a proposed 12-year, $10 billion program to aid urban mass transit systems.

—$352 million for manpower training programs.

Missouri Taxpayers' Share $4.4 Billion

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri taxpayers must provide $4.4 billion as their share of the cost of the federal budget sent to Congress today, Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said.

That is more than four times the amount Missouri taxpayers will pay to the state this fiscal year, the Survey said, and is nearly double the amount they provided to finance federal expenditures seven years ago.

Total federal revenues are estimated at $202.1 billion for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and expenditures at $200.8 billion, providing a surplus of $1.3 billion.

Scott county's share of the cost of the federal budget will be about $25.2 million. It based its calculation its proportion of personal income.

Revised estimates of federal revenues and expenditures for the current fiscal year indicate receipts will total $199.4 billion and expenditures $197.9 billion, with a resulting estimated surplus of $1.5 billion. The surplus for the current fiscal year had been estimated at $5.9 billion as recently as September, the Survey said.

With only a small surplus estimated for the coming fiscal year in the budget sent to Congress today, it could easily become a deficit if spending restraint is not exercised by both congress and the executive branch, the Survey said. Such restraint is an important element in controlling inflation.

Two Charged In Theft of Television Set

Police Chief Arthur Bruce said this morning Billy Ritter, 20, 415 Ruth, and James D. Cridter, 26, of the Delmo housing addition south of Morehouse, have been charged with burglary in connection with he Friday night theft of a television set from Campbell's Appliance Store on Center Street.

Bruce reported David Hooks 17, and Teddy Lathom, 18, both of Matthews, have been picked up for investigation of auto tampering.

The investigation stems from a Friday night theft of a tape player and tapes from a car belonging to Jim Warf, Sikeston.

The chief said a juvenile boy also will be questioned about it.

Thieves Steal Coins from Five Machines

NEW MADRID — Two breakins occurred during the weekend, City Marshal O. E. Householder reported this morning.

An undetermined amount of money from five coin machines was taken in a breakin at the Veterans Club, highway 61 North. Double metal doors on the north side of the building were wedged open for the thief or thieves to crawl into the building.

Mrs. Cornelius Beaher, an employe, discovered the breakin at 2:30 p.m. Sunday when she opened the club.

Bob Ruff, manager of Cargill Inc., reported to police Sunday a window had been broken and the office entered. Nothing was reported missing. An unsuccessful attempt was made to obtain money from a soda machine outside the firm by shooting at the lock with a shotgun.

$200 Stolen In Robbery - Of Jarvis Safe

Police reported about $200 was stolen Friday night or early Saturday from a safe in the front office of the Jarvis Motor Company on North Main.

Officers found crowbars and other safe opening devices near the safe after the robbery was reported at 5:45 a.m. by a salesman, William Palmer, 214 Powers. Papers and bank bags were scattered on the floor.

Police suspect entry was gained through a rotten plank in the back of the building.

Allied Forces Report Killing 500 In Heaviest Fighting in 6 Months

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces claimed they killed more than 500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops over the weekend in the heaviest fighting in six months. The allies reported 21 Americans and 20 South Vietnamese killed, with 160 Americans and 99 South Vietnamese wounded in more than 100 enemy rocket, mortar and ground attacks.

U.S. military spokesmen, assessing the battlefield reports, said the enemy command had launched a pre-Tet "highpoint" of activity along the populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang and in the Central Highlands.

Two American helicopters were downed, with five U.S. and six South Vietnamese killed and seven Americans wounded.

The surge of enemy activity came only a few days before the 40th anniversary Tuesday of the founding of the Vietnamese Communist party and the start Thursday of a four-day ceasefire that the Viet Cong proclaimed for Tet, the festival of the lunar new year.

The South Vietnamese government is expected to announce a 24-hour cease-fire in the next few days.

Allied intelligence officers had said they anticipated an increase in enemy attacks either before or after Tet. Such temporary increases, which fall short of a sustained, countrywide offensive, are called "highpoints" by intelligence officers.

Seventy enemy rocket and mortar attacks were reported Saturday night and another 44 Sunday night, the U.S. Command said. Most were centered in the Central Highlands and the coastal lowlands, and about two-thirds of them were directed at South Vietnamese troops and bases.

Battlefield communiques said that many of the 505 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong reported killed over the weekend were slain by allied bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery.

Spokesmen said some of the enemy dead were reported by aerial observers and others by ground units. This raised the possibility that the number was exaggerated—deliberately, through duplication, or by field commanders sending estimates as actual body counts. This has happened often in the past.

South Vietnamese spokesmen claimed their forces decimated two North Vietnamese infantry companies in fighting along the demilitarized zone and south of Da Nang, and killed a company commander and captured another in a third battle north of Saigon. The South Vietnamese lost a battalion commander in a fourth fight near Quang Ngai City, 80 miles south of Da Nang.

The heaviest fighting was in the northern provinces, but action also was reported in the Central Highlands, along the Cambodian border north of Saigon and in he Mekong Delta.

American troops fared badly in several battles.

A small Marine patrol assessing the results of an American artillery strike 44 miles southeast of Da Nang apparently walked into an ambush. Four Marines were killed and four wounded in a hail of rifle and machine-gun fire.

Two American infantrymen from the 25th Division were killed and nine wounded when about 30 enemy soldiers attacked a night defensive position 34 miles northwest of Saigon with rocket grenades, rifles and machine guns.

Three Arrested After Holdup

NEELYVILLE — The Daberco Farms, owned by Dave and Dan Daberco, was held up by three armed men Sunday at 3 p.m. Three men were apprehended one hour later by the state patrol in Greenville.

Taken in the holdup was $100 in currency and $10 in change, including 10 old 50-cent coins.

A description of the men and their car were given the patrol. Apprehended were James Clarence Whitaker, 24, Breckenridge Hills; James Lloyd McBride, 27, St. Louis, and Timothy Nokes, 23, Bridgeton.

Money and a gun were found on the men, who were taken to the Butler county jail in Poplar Bluff and charged with the robbery.

Patrol to Probe Car Shooting

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—Capt. William Thompson of the Illinois State Police said he planned to lead an investigation today into a shooting incident involving a State Police Patrol car.

The car, occupied by troopers, was fired on Sunday afternoon as it patroled in the area of Pyramid Courts, an all-Negro public housing development.

Thompson said three bullets struck the car, shattering the windshield.

State police said troopers Harold Nelson Negro, and John Abercrombie, were not hurt.

State Police said officers have been patroling the Pyramid Courts area for the past three weeks at the request of Father Gerald Montrov, a white Roman Catholic priest who works in the black community, and Negro leaders.

Budget Cost Near $1,000 Each

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every man, woman and child in the United States will have an average of almost $1,000 committed in the new federal budget.

The $200.8 billion spending figure, divided by the 205 million people the government expects the 1970 census to show for the nation's population, yields a share of $979 each.

Of that, $358 will go for national defense, $17 for space programs, $39 for education and manpower, $245 for income security programs and $86 for interest on the national debt. Smaller amounts will go for a multitude of other items.

Women in Two Bootheel Counties Don't Serve on Juries But Believe They Should

This is the first of two stories dealing with women jurors. This article is concerned primarily with the woman's viewpoint.

NEW MADRID -- Women in New Madrid and Pemiscot counties, the 34th judicial circuit, do not serve on juries. Women are not selected as jurors in these counties because their names are not on a list from which a jury is impaneled.

Women's names are not included on the prospective jury selection list because under state law women can be excused from jury duty simply by making a request for release from service.

A random poll of New Madrid women disclosed that women believe the reason they are not summoned is because of out - moded tradition. They said they felt this practice should be changed.

New Madrid women noted in other areas women accept the responsibility and are regularly impaneled for jury duty. They stated they would serve if impaneled.

Five adjoining Boothell counties, Butler, Stoddard, Mississippi, Scott and Dunklin regularly impanel women as jurors or alternates.

Dunklin County Circuit Clerk Brydon M. Ross said "Twenty - five per cent of the women jurors impaneled accept the responsibility and serve." They do not ask to be released, Ross said, unless they have a good legitimate reason.

"I believe women make excellent jurors. We have no problems with them".

Women have been serving on Dunklin county juries since the legislature gave courts the right to impanel them.

Another reason women in New Madrid and Pemiscot counties are not summoned for jury duty is the court houses in the counties lack dual facilities near the court room for men and women.

Circuit Judge William L. Ragland, when asked why women in New Madrid and Pemiscot county are not impaneled for jury duty, said:

"In the past, before I was judge, it looked like every women ever picked wanted to be excused, and finally the board of jury commissioners just gave up on it."

Judge Ragland, who has served for 10 years as circuit judge in the two counties, said he had no objections whatsoever to women jurors.

He said: "I am sent all over where women serve."

Because of family responsibilities, Judge Ragland said he thought it would be hard for a young mother to serve.

Judge Ragland explained facilities were not available in New Madrid and Pemiscot court houses to confine a jury of both sexes.

Qualifications set by state law for jury duty require persons to be a resident of the state, over 21 years, a county resident for one year, sober, intelligent and of good reputation.

The state constitution provides no person may be disqualified as a juror because of sex. Upon request, a woman will be excused from jury service, if the request is made prior to her being sworn.

Other persons released from jury service, upon request, include those over 65 years of age; members of professional groups, including medicine, osteopathy, denistry, chiropractic, clergy, professors, teachers, or a person who has served on a federal, state or grand jury within a year.

A person whose absence from his regular employment might effect the safety or welfare of citizens, such as a pharmacist, will be excused upon request.

At the discretion of the judge, persons may be released from jury service, if such duty imposes undue financial or physical hardships.

Ineligible for jury service are those convicted of a felony and not restored to citizen's rights; misdemeanors involving moral turpitude; or those who cannot read, write, speak or understand English.

Oters who cannon serve are persons on active duty in the armed forces of the United States or any member of the organized militia on active duty under order of the governor; any licensed attorney, a judge of a court of record, or a person, who, in the judgment of the court or other authority charged with selecting a jury panel, has a mental or physical infirmity.

State statutes regulating jury selection in third and fourth class counties require a list containing at least 400 names of prospective jurors, composed of persons from the different townships in the county based upon the population.

From this list, a board of jury commissioners, consisting of county court judges, circuit judge and circuit clerk, an ex officio member, select at ramdom a panel of jurors and alternates to serve during a regular four - month term of court.

All but one woman in New Madrid interviewed said they believed women should be serving on juries. They believe jury duty is a civic responsibility of every eligible citizen.

Three questions asked were:

"Do you feel women should serve on juries?

"Would you be willing to serve as a juror if impaneled?

"Have you ever given any thought about why women did not serve on juries?"

Answers and comments from the women included:

"If I were called upon, I would serve. I feel it would be my duty, and I would go. Women should serve; there is no reason why they should not. I can't imagine anyone against it. I don't feel women are not capable. If I were convinced a person was guilty, I wouldn't mind saying so. I know they serve in other communities."

"I surely do believe women should serve on juries. I feel women are very much capable. I think men and women are both needed. Absolutely I would serve if impaneled. I was asked to serve as a juror in district court at Cape Girardeau when I was teaching school, but my boss wouldn't let me off work."

"I feel women should serve, yes. I would be willing to serve if they would call me. I think they would be definite improvement. My daughter has been called for jury service in New York." This woman said she had thought about why women were not serving jury duty, and thought it was because the town is small and availability of women is limited. She has a woman friend who served on the jury in Jimmy Hoffa's trial in Tennessee.

"I wouldn't want to, but I do feel they should. I would be willing to serve if called. I guess I haven't really thought about why women didn't serve. I realize they haven't If you don't like the system, you can't really say anything unless you are involved. Women are called on to do the work whenever anything is needed to be accomplished."

"I really think they should. I don't know why they wouldn't be as smart as men. Yes, I would serve. If you are for a thing, you should go along with it. I think it is simply tradition. Women haven't stepped out and pushed. It's not lack of qualifications or ir 'ligence."

A lone woman who did not favor women jurors said "I wouldn't want to serve. I would just as soon women didn't serve. It has never bothered me that women didn't serve. I think women are too chicken - hearted."

The second of the series will deal with what men and high officials think about women jurors.

Groundhog Decrees Early Spring by Staying in Hole

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (AP) — It'll be an early spring this year, according to Punxsutawney Phil, the weather-forecasting groundhog. He declined for the first time in 20 years to look at his shadow, thus decreeing an end to winter weather.

As tradition has it, if Phil emerges from his burrow and sees his shadow, he returns to wait out six more weeks of winter.

James R. 'Red' Nix Killed In Motel, Woman Admits Slaying

MEMPHIS -- James R. "Red" Nix, 51, who was found slain Saturday morning in a motel room, had planned to operate a motel between Sikeston and New Madrid Mo.

Nix, who lived at Covington, Tenn., and Sikeston, apparently was stabbed to death.

Art Garner, owner of the Rail Haven Motel in Sikeston, said he saw Nix one day last week and he thought possibly Nix would operate the Ranch motel on highway 61 south of Sikeston. Garner had pruchased the motel.

Police said Nix was last seen in the Sikeston area about 2 p.m. Friday.

Garner said he knew of no one who would want to kill Nix.

"I think it may have been just a common drunken brawl," Garner said.

A 40 - year - old woman said last night in the presence of two lawyers that she killed Nix early Saturday in a midtown Memphis motel room.

The woman identified herself as Mrs. Delthia 'Dale' Anne Graves but gave no address except, "I've been staying with my brother" whom she did not identify.

Her attorney, allowed a reporter to talk to Mrs. Graves in his office at the 100 North Main building.

The lawyer said the woman's connection with the slaying had not been reported to police at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. But, he said, she would be surrendered and claim self - defense.

Mrs. Graves claimed Nix "was knocking" her about and she cut him with a knife he had given her on a previous occasion. She said she put the knife down to see how badly Nix was hurt and he grabbed a knife which he had.

Saying her memory was "a little vague," she said she probably shot him with a pistol Nix had in the room.

Well - known for his gambling activities, Nix was found dead in room 724 at the Holiday Inn - Midtown, 1261 Union. Police said there was evidence of a stabbing and shooting in the room.

There was a report that several bullets from a small caliber pistol had been found in the room.

Dr. Jerry T. Francisco, Shelby County medical examiner, is expected to rule on the cause of death Monday.

Police said Nix's body had major wounds on the lower right side of the abdomen, in the right side of his chest and at the base of his neck on the right side.

Nix, who had operated gambling places in Tipton County, Tenn., and other places, served time after being convicted in 1951 of an $11,000 robbery of the Kennel Club, a casino which was in the vicinity of Byhalia, Miss.

According to police information, Nix had checked into the motel at 1:02 Saturday morning and had asked for a room for two people.

Nix's attorney, said he had been informed that Nix left Sikeston at 2 to 2:30 p.m. Friday to drive to Memphis, a 150 mile drive. He should have arrived in Memphis around 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Where he was between the time he arrived here and the time he registered at the motel was not determined.

Nix's lawyer was representing him on an appeal of a conviction in Memphis last year on a charge of driving a stolen car across the state line. Nix received three years, but was free on $5,000 bond.

Police were called after motel guests and employes saw blood on the sidewalk in front of Nix's room.

A son, Robert S. Nix, and a daughter, Mrs. Sandra Thornton, both of Covington, identified the body.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
INHOSPITABLE HOSPITALS

Hospital confinement is rarely a pleasant experience. For those willing to pay the increasingly higher costs for privacy and personal care, it can be made more comfortable. For the poor, it is usually traumatic. Municipal hospitals are overcroweded and understaffed, and equipment is often obsolete.

In recent years, the press has brought the crisis to public attention. On Monday, Feb. 2, Frederick Wiseman's new documentary "Hospital" will be shown over the National Educational Television network. Wiseman is the controversial producer - director of "Titicut Follies" - a documentary filmed at a Massachusetts mental hospital. He filmed "Hospital" with no commentary other than the actual scenes at Metropolitan Hospital in New York. With scenes that "may bother the squeamish", it is not intended for children or for those who prefer the honeyed fantasy of a Dr. Kildare. "Hospital" will be broadcast at or after 10 p.m. on local ETV stations.

Wiseman's film comes at a time when many young doctors are trying to correct conditions in urban hospitals. Activists at D. C. General recently threatened to admit all patients needing care. New York City doctors have protested the state legislature's decision to cut hospital funds. Increasing numbers of interns are choosing to work in municipal hospitals instead of wealthier surburban institutions. The problems, however, remain monumental.

TOWARDS A SOLUTION

In these modern times and sometimes strange ways, there are times we might ask: Self-confidence ... who needs it?

For instance ...

The parents who sees the gulf between himself and a son or daughter, but is too fearful to bridge it.

The youth who finds himself in an imperfect world but feels powerless to do anything about it.

The older person who is so unnerved by change that he resists any kind of innovation.

The unionist or businessman who knows what should be done on the job, but who lacks the courage to stand up and say so.

The public official who pays more attention to his popularity than to solving tough problems.

All of us -- individually and collectively -- because we are in danger of losing confidence that we can make headway against such challenges as ... family breakdown ... crime in the streets ... arms reduction .... world hunger ... racial tensions ... educational policy, to participate in decision - making on the local, national and global levels.

And remember, "A mistake is only a friendly invitation to keep trying."

GUILT BY ASSOCIATION

Several months back, you may recall that football Commissioner Pete Rozelle came under fire for delivering an ultimatum to New York Jet's quarterback - playboy Joe Namath. The choice was between remaining in professional football or giving up a lucrative share in a New York nightclub. The reason for the commissioner's demands was the alleged use of the club as a meeting place by known gamblers.

Many were critical of the commissioner's action. But in the light of recent stories implying ties between gambling world characters and professional sports figures, the commissioner acted in a sound manner. The integrity of football sport must be maintained.

A similar story appeared a few years ago in the baseball world. Detroit Tiger's ace outfielder, Al Kaline, owned a string of racehorses. And the Tiger owner requested that - to avoid any hint of scandalous activity - Kalin sell his share of the horses. Without fanfare or argument, Kaline did so. At the time he said that baseball was his bread - and - butter, and he could understand the logic of not allowing any doubt to exist as to any connection between the gambling oriented racing game and baseball.

It is quite probable that much of the problem is due to contacts of an entirely innocent nature. But when it comes to sports stars and gamblers any association, guilty or not, should be avoided.

You may also recall the story of the famed "Black Sox" scandal of 1919. This was the incident which led to the indictment and suspension of eight members of the Chicago White Six ballclub for fraud. One of the team confessed that he had accepted a bribe to allow the Cincinnati club to win the World Series. Although not found guilty in court, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, banned all of the players involved.

We believe that all should heed the warnings of these stories. Sports figures should take the lead of Mr. Kaline and shun the hint of scandal before it can be roused. We are often - rightly or wrongly - judged by the company we keep.

COTTON PROMOTION PAYING OFF

It is just as necessary to promote cotton and cotton products as it is to promote soap, automobiles, or cornflakes.

Several decades ago, a certain brand of soap was number one in sales. The brand was so well known that officers of the company decided advertising was no longer needed. The soap fell lower and lower in the best-seller ranks and finally disappeared from grocery shelves.

The company learned its lesson well, because its toothpaste, soap, detergent, shampoo, and other personal care items are now ranked at the top or near the top. A prime reason is that its advertising budget is the largest of any company in the world.

Cotton farmers are learning a similar lesson. Advertising and promotion are as necessary as production of cotton. If you can't sell it, there's no need to produce it.

Through the dollar - a - bale program of the Cotton Producers Institute (CPI), farmers are promoting the sale of cotton products with a $6.6 million budget. And it's paying off.

The largest mail-order chain in the nation switched back to 100% cotton for its muslin sheets. The world's largest automobile manufacturer switched from synthetics to all-cotton for its landau auto tops.

Jantzen's entire women's sportswear line will be 100 per cent cotton for this spring. Other manufacturers and retailers are swinging back to cotton for tieir first - line items. They've been convinced by farmer support of cotton through the dollar - a - bale program.

The CPI program is working, because cotton farmers are fighting back with their dollars.

HOBBY FARMING FOR TAX DEDUCTIONS

According to what we read and hear, farming just to reap a tax loss is big business.

And for this reason, members of the National Federation of Independent Business were polled and the results showed 74 per cent cast a dubious eye on such "hobby farming" by wealthy people and big corporations.

While millions of Americans eke out a living by farming, some large farms and ranches are operated mainly for the taxable loss which can be applied against incomes from other sources. Because of farm - operating deducations, it's possible to show a tax loss even where cash gain is realized.

Besides the abuse of tax deductions intended for farmers, and the resulting loss of federal revenue, businessmen see other negative aspects of tax-sheltered farming. Farm prices may suffer in part because of tax - motivated farmers who are not concerned with the prices they receive, since lower prices simply mean bigger tax reductions from their major incomes.

And some farm land speculation may be traced to this activity. Movie stars and highly - paid celebrities are among those who seek shelter in farms.

So supporters of the Metcalf and Culver bills believe the $15,000 limit on farm losses would bring in between $200 million and $300 million a year to the Treasury.

The bill would permit tax losses to exceed $15,000 only if these consisted of taxes, interest, losses from theft, fire, storm or drought, and loss from sale or exchange of property. Thus, in effect, it would limit the use of special farm deductions for capital costs and inventory, depreciation on buildings and machinery, livestock depreciation, and the like.

A farm which breaks even on a cash basis but shows a tax loss of $50,000, when substracted from $200,000 income from other sources, can reduce tax liability by $30,000 or more, the Federation calculates.

What is behind this plan is the belief that farming should be left to the farmers.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Finding living space for people instead of parking places for cars may become the big problem of the future. United Nations experts say that if population increases at a two per cent annual rate the number of people in the world will leap from the present 3.6 billion to 4.9 billion by 1985.

Burglars appear to lead safer lives than most criminals. Although burglaries account for 40 per cent of serious crime in the United States, 80 per cent of them are unsolved because of lack of evidence or witnesses.

No one yet has taught a male gorilla to play professional football, but one of these creatures might be developed into an ideal tackle or fullback. Although he stands only about six feet tall, which would probably disqualify him for a career in pro basketball, he weighs 400 pounds or more and has an arm span of eight feet.

Have you a high IQ? It may help you to live longer. A 12year study of 47 elderly men by the Philadelphia Geriatric Center found that those still alive at 80 were more intelligent than those who had died at an earlier age.

Quotable notables: "Popularity is exhausting. The life of the party almost always winds up in a corner with an overcoat over him."—Wilson Mizner.

Humane on the Range: Cryogenic or "freeze branding" of cattle may replace the traditional way in which ranchers now mark their stock. Instead of a red-hot iron, an iron frozen to minus 70 degrees centigrade is used. It causes no pain and doesn't mar the hide. The hair on the branded area grows in white and increases the visibility of the mark.

Beans to dollars: The popularity of the office coffee break has been a big boon to business. Partly as a result of it, the United States now buys almost half the world's coffee production. The average American now drinks 750 cups a year. The total national bill for the habit: $1 billion annually.

Nuts on Wheels: Many Japanese drive like lunatics because that's what they are. Since the discontinuance in Japan of a requirement that aspirants for a license first pass a psychiatric exam, authorities estimate some 160,000 mentally deranged or drug-addicted people now have obtained the legal right to drive.

Worth remembering: "The best thing about the future is that it only comes one day at a time."

History lesson: Can you name the first U.S. President to broadcast in a foreign tongue? He was Franklin D. Roosevelt, who on Nov. 7, 1942, broadcast a message to the French people in their own language as allied armadas were preparing to land in North African French ports.

You have fewer bones when you reach voting age than you did the day you were born. At birth you probably had 33 bones in your spinal column, but as you matured some of the vertebrae fused, and you wound up with 24. Incidentally, your bones, although they are half water, half solid material, are stronger, pound for pound, than steel.

WHAT THE "NO-AD" MAN FORGETS

The non-advertiser invariably has one or more excuses as to why he does not "need' newspaper advertising space.

If this merchant maintains that he has "too much business" he confesses ignorance of the chief function of newspaper advertising as a long - range program designed to build and maintain a reputation for a store. The memory of customers is short and new customers are coming into the retail market every day and every year.

Newspaper advertising during good times will help to build up the reputation of the store as a safeguard against the stresses of a depression. Adversiting in the home paper should be a definite part of the merchandising plan just as are window displays, store displays, clerks, rent on a good location and other merchandising services.

THE MENACE OF CUBA

The menace of Castro's Cuba has been given very little attention in the mass media. Yet this threat exists and should be taken into account by those who formulate our Latin American policies.

Recently Senator Gordon Allott of Colorado pointed out some of the reasons why we should still fear Cuban communism. First, farleft revolutionary groups have been trained in Cuba, and many militant groups are receiving financial help from Cuban communists.

In addition, according to Senator Allott, "refugees continue to report the presence of dangerous missiles on the island". Some recently arrived refugees have said that the number of missiles is greater now than at the time of the missile crisis in 1962.

Castro's goverment is financing and directing espionage activity in the United States. Last summer, several Cuban diplomats at the United Nations had to be denied re - entry into our country because "they conducted intellignece activities and gave financial and directional aid" to militant groups.

Senator Allott also pointed out that Cuba's subversion is directed against the entire Western Hemisphere. He urged our government to help defend "our neighbors in Central and South America" against the imposition of Ccommunist tyranny.

We do the people of Cuba no favor by adopting a neutral attitude toward Castro's government. These people suffer daily under communism, and they are very much aware of the true nature of Castro's government, which threatens the entire Western Hemisphere. We ignore it at our own peril. HLH

YABLONSKI SAGA

FBI Probes Mysterious 25 Days in May

Washington, D.C.: -- Who was that man with the late, martyred Joe (Jock) Yablonski at the Honey In the Rocks Motel, a mile and a half outside of Bekley, W.Va., during the miners' presidential election campaign last year?

Was the mystery man walking with the rebel leader from the restaurant to Mr. Yablonski's room? Or did the "unman" (FBI lexicon for unidentified man) stalk the insurgent? Was the "unman" one of the gruesome trio now being held on murder charges? Or did he merely look like him? Was he bodyguard or killer?

There are a thousand such questions on he FBI special agents sheet. Eventually J. Edgar Hoover's men will answer all of them. Despite all reports there's mighty little that is really known.

What is fact, is that Joe Yablonski was not scheduled to go before a grand jury investigating the United Mine Workers (UMW).

There was no such grand jury. The announcement of thyrebel's impending testimony is a ploy to give the federal authorities the cover under which to move in on the murder which is a state, not a federal, crime.

So the crusading miner could not have been killed to stop him from doing what he was not set to do.

It also can be reported that the U.S. Labor Dept.'s 200 special agents investigating the Dec. 9 national United Mine Workers (Ind.) election haven't discovered any fraud of consequence, and illegalities in the balloting, or na violations among the 800 major locals which would warrant setting aside the balloting results.

This may be reported by Secretary of Labor George Shultz as early as Feb. 7, long before the self - imposed 60 - day deadline. This will not finish the investigation into the miners union which, with control of a large bank here and heavy cash assets, is considered one of the world's wealthiest labor organizations.

That probe will continue and eventually may move the government to call for another election on the grounds that too much money was poured in or that the union's UMW Journal was too heavily weighted in President W.A. (Tony) Boyle's favor.

This hardly is unprecedented. Election reruns invariably repeat the original results.

But the significance here is that the motive for the horrendous triple murders lies not in the actual election mechanism, counting, or outcome.

Far more basic is, what happened during the 25 days in May (1969)?

For years up to May 4, Mr. Yablonski and Tony Boyle supped at the same table, as he late Old King Coal, John L. Lewis, would say.

Mr. Yablonski delivered speech after speech eulogizing Mr. Boyle, whom many of us, including Ralph Nader were criticizing for one reason or another. During the miners' September 1968 Denver convention, Jock Yablonski was one of Presient Boyle's most enthusiastic supporters – at least in public. There are recorded speeches showing that the late rebel talked of Tony Boyle as a legendary leader who was heaven's gift to the men in the black pits.

Furthermore, Mr. Yablonski was chairman of the convention's constitution committee. Those of us who have doodled during a thousand union conventions know that this is considered one of a union's most powerful positions. He was placed there by Tony Boyle.

Finally on May 4, 1969, there was a big miners rally in Charleston, W.Va. This was a cheering, whooping, angry demonstration – a roaring protest by 2,000 coal diggers – for new safety and anti - black lung legislation. Jock Yablonski, a bright intellectual, albeit quick - tempered, chap who wrote magazine articles and collaborated on a play with his wife, was master of ceremonies. He spoke of Tony Boyle as a great leader, a fighter for the cause.

Then 25 days later, at a guarded press conference in a Washington hotel, Joseph Yablonski declared for the presidency of the UMW. From then on out he accused Tony Boyle (with whom he had served on he union's executive board for years) of leading a corrupt union. "Jock" angrily hurled charges of "violence, despotism and corruption."

What brought this transformation? What did rebel Yablonski learn in less than a month?

Why had he not spoken out earlier? Whom did he whip up into such a fury of hate that they would plan a triple murder? Were these forces in the lower stretches of the union – or were they outside?

If he was no threat to the security of Tony Boyle and his team of national UMW officers – and Jock Yablonski certainly wasn't during the final hours of the '60s – then to whom was he actually a threat, physically or economically?

Despite all the official statements – and unofficial leaks – on the arrests, the real story will be a long time seeping out. This was no act of passion. It was real love of money, not power, real money, big money, not just four grand which went to three flotsam bums.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Ominous complaints have reached the Pentagon that chemical defoliants used in Vietnam may have caused tragic deformities in Vietnamese babies.

The Pentagon wants to shut its eyes and close its ears to this new horror of the war. But despite official denials to this column, it is an absolute fact that such reports are in Defense Department files.

The reports do not offer final proof that dumping defoliants on rain - forest women causes deformed babies in the Thalidomide pattern. Nevertheless, it is worth pointing out that the makers of Thalidomide, cigarettes and birth - control pills all scoffed initially at warnings of damage to the human body.

Up to now, as much as 20 per cent of South Vietnam's jungle and woodland has been sprayed at least once to open up Viet Cong hiding places. Under the picturesque code name "Ranch Hand," American planes have poured chemicals on vegetation and village alike.

Two days after spraying, the leaves turn color as in some hideously speeded - up autumn. A few weeks later, they drop to the gound. The defoliants also have been rained on thousands of acres of crops to kill food grown for the Viet Cong.

In the process, innocent women and children have been subjected to the "Agent" cloudburst. The Pentagon would like to make it sound as healthy as a Lifebuoy shower. Questioned by this column, spokesman sneered at the reports of deformities. But scientific data lately gives the military drumbeaters a hollow sound.

--DEFORMITIES IN RODENTS--

For example, President Nixon's science adviser, Dr. Lee DuBridge, recently told of laboratory tests of "2,4,5-T," the sprays used widely in Vietnam to defoliate trees and shrubs.

"Off spring of mice and rats given relatively large oral doses of the herbicide during early stages of pregnancy showed a higher than expected number of deformities," said DuBridge.

DuBridge cautiously added that although human harm was improbable, the hervicide's use was being banned or curtailed in a large number of areas, including use on people. The Pentagon, of course, asserted it never had a policy of defoliating people, anyway. Secretary of Defense Mel Laird has emphasized that no incidents of verified "malformed births from defoliation are known."

While the "unverified" reports on Vietnam babies contine to trickle in to the Pentagon, Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., wondering what large - scale use of defoliants may be doing closer to home. He has begun a staff investigation of the defoliation of the Candian – U.S. boundary. Specifically, he wants to know whether it is poisoning plants, animal life and streams,

--ON OUR OWN BOUNDARIES--

This column has obtained State Department documents showing that a 20 foot swath 1,305 miles long has been defoliated with "picloram," manufactured by Dow Chemical under the name "Tordon 101." It is also used in Vietnam.

The Alaskan boundary and part of the U.S. boundary with Canada is sprayed by helicopter, the State Department acknowledges. This, of course, means that the chemicals sift down into lakes and other water sources.

The chemicals already have been detected in waters of the Waterton National Park, the Canadian counterpart to Glacier National Park. The State Department hedges on picloram's safety, saying there is no evidence it is "directly" damaging.

But a more impartial scientist, Prof. Richard M. Klein, botanist at the University of Vermont, has given a confidential assessment to the Vermont State legislature.

"Picloram is lethal to small animals such as mice, rabbits and guinea pigs in relatively large amounts," wrote Klein. Rainbow trout, bass and even blue gills die under long exposure to Tordon 101. Danger is heightened when the chemical is mixed with another weed and plant killer for the mixture "will quickly kill sheep."

These interactions, warns the Klein report, call for "extreme caution" because the sheep deaths raise "questions of its safety for animal life, not excluding man." Britain, he added, bans the stuff.

Meanwhile, the Defense Department continues to rain down the potential baby-deformers on Vietnam, as the Agriculture department drags its feet on restricting 2, 4, 5-T.

And the U.S., in cooperation with Canada, dumps Tordon 101 on plants, animals and water sources along our boundary without more than the faintest idea of what it will do to our environments.

Jury Duty Part Of Working Democracy

Dear Ann Landers: Is the human race having a mass nervous breakdown? What has happened to common decency? Naked people on the stage and thousands of nuts standing in line to pay $23 for a ticket. Four - letter words in campus papers and everywhere youth demanding the right to sleep together in college dormitories.

And now I read where a California psychologist says the best way for a husband to regain lost potency is to have an affair with another woman -- and a woman should be supplied by the therapist.

The therapist makes it clear, however, that it can't be just ANY woman. It must be a woman who is also having a sex problem and is hard up for romance. In this way, the doctor claimed it would be a valuable service to both.

In my day a man who procured women for sex was known as a pimp and it was a pretty lowdown business. Today it is called "therapy" and considered respectable in some fairly high - class places. Please comment.--- Speechless

Dear Speechless: Considered respectable? By whom? Not by me. Nor by any of my medical or psychiatric consultants. Merely because a man is a therapist doesn't mean he has all his marbles. There are kooks in every field, and that bud is proof.

Dear Ann Landers: I just finished serving ten days of jury duty. Over 140 people were interviewed before thirteen qualified jurists could be found.

I served at considerable inconvenience and personal sacrifice. After interminable hours of listening, endless note taking and much soul searching, we reached a verdict. I felt as if I had performed a meaningful public service.

It seems a great many of our friends didn't like the verdict. The phone is driving me crazy. "Why did you decide that way? Doesn't you conscience bother you?" Wherever we go, people want to talk about the case and argue with me.

Last night my husband gave me orders. He said, "You'll never serve on a jury again as long as I live. The abuse isn't worth it. If your name gets pulled, you'll have to say you are prejudiced and wish to be excused."

I agreed and I'm glad I did. It wasn't worth it. ---Tired

Dear Tired: I'm sorry you feel as you do because jury service is a vital contribution to our democratic system. I hope you will rethink your decision and, in time, change your mind. We need citizens like you.

Dear Ann Landers: For years I have answered he telephone and heard the party on the other end say, "Who is this?" I then ask, "Whom did you call?" The party often hangs up or yells an obscenity.

Why don't these clods realize that when they intrude on the privacy of others, the responsibility of identification is on THEM, not the person they call.

The well bred individual says, "This is John Doe. Is Mary Jones in, please?" This procedure eliminates the irritating question, "Who is calling?" Pass the word, please. I'm sick of telephone slobs. -- Texarkana

Dear Tex: I've passed it before and I'll do it again. People need to be reminded.

PARIS (AP) — The Paris openings of spring and summer fashion collections ended Saturday with Yves Saint Laurent's presentation, and one thing is clear: midcalf is most popular for the hemlines, although there is a strong miniskirt hangover.

Some designers do not hesitate to drop hemlines to around the ankles. In dressier dinner numbers they look elegant. The young dresses that hit midcalf take on a demure look instead of the aggressive mood of past seasons. They gain in charm and the mood is soft and often tender.

Borders in general are in for attention. On tunics, Cardin has a wide white edge, Patou edges his funnel- flared dresses in navy, in black or white at the neckline and hemline. Chanel borders her suits and coats at the collarless neckline and wrists in a dark braid. This does not eliminate the many crisp white touches, collars, and deep cuffs everywhere.

There are innovations in coats at many houses. The fitted redingote at Dior's with its unpressed back pleat shares honors with Cardin's straight slender back- slashed topcoats. Many coats are sleeveless and show the dress print. Ungaro does them in every length.

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Cardin mingled the sexy with the demure in his spring- and summer fashion opening Friday, presenting at least 10 creative ideas in dozens of different ways.

There is no nudity, but Cardin relies heavily on see-through effects for flitting exposures of the anatomy.

Ankle- length sheaths are slashed at the front with a rounded cutaway section starting at the accepted minilength. The same treatment is shown with the slash in the back, with a plain front, so that legs are still very much in focus.

Again at the minilength point, he cuts ankle- length skirts into vertical maypole ribbons. They are sometimes looped to form harem trousers, or are simply banded at the hemline in a sort of hobble skirt cage.

He makes good use of flat loops in wide effects for mini peplums, to form harem trousers, or are simply banded at the hemline in a sort of hobble skirt cage.

He makes good use of flat loops in wide effects for mini peplums, or in narrow ribbon strips shown in teins and forming the skirt which may be either mini or midi.

These spaced strips are used in necklines, spirally for skirts and for back decolletes. Round thongs of fabric like macaroni may form multiple shoulder straps, see- through bibs on dress fronts and peekaboo effects in skirts.

More conventional are his ankle- length and midcalf ensembles in soft patchwork tweeds or pale crepes. The tweed went over plain jersey dresses, followed by a series of pastel-printed jersey sheaths with individual detailing.

The dozens of crepe cress and coat ensembles showed bars of color contrasts at their hemlines, sometimes repreated through the midriff or yoke of the dress. These were either pastel contrasts in pale tones or individual detailing.

Sprouts from Stumps

The only commercial coniferous tree which sprouts from the stumps of harvested trees is the coast redwood. These conifers are among the world's fastest growing trees.

SEE IT NEW

Clear Through and through are new kitchen helpers bringing the see-through look so popular in home furnishings into the kitchen. Cutting boards, cake knives, pie servers in lucite, plexiglas and acrylic plastics are strikingly handsome.

Give a New Flavor to an old favorite, by topping vanilla ice cream with Ocean Spray cranberry-orange relish. It's tart and sweet all at once for a dessert that's different.

Lighting Strikes a newly decorative note, with lamps and lighting systems for the home that are more works of art than fixtures. Light sculptures are totally illuminated shapes; flashing colors put on a light show in the living room; even neon is finding a place in the home, handled tastefully and imaginatively by today's designers.

Watch for . . .
Pockets, placed where you'd least expect them, serving as decorative trim on both casual and dressy fashion . . . Two-story mobile homes; the ultimate in spaciousness and comfort for families "on the road" . . . Home decor in the pink. Dusty, rosy, mauvy pink tones are the coming colors for home furnishings . . . Colorful caftan robes for men a wild look for the beach in printed terry or heavy cotton.

Maravich Replaces Big O As All-Time Scoring King

Drooping socks, flopping hair and all, college basketball's crown prince was holding court.

Pete Maravich glided through helpless Mississippi with the greatest of ease, his regal form twitching toward the basket intent on The Goal.

Then the roar of the crowd rolled down from the stratosphere of the Louisiana State University Coliseum as the LSU wonder boy cracked Oscar Robertson's career scoring record Saturday night.

"He was superb," exulted Coach Press Maravich after watching his panther-lean son score 53 points to give him 2,987 for his career—wiping out Robertson's 2,973.

Maravich gave the arenajamming crowd of 11,000 a happy ending as the Tigers toppled Ole Miss 109-66 in one of the top games in an otherwise upsetstudded Saturday.

Vanderbilt shocked secondranked Kentucky 89-81; Loyola of Chicago upset seventh-ranked Marquette 76-72 and Notre Dame surprised 10th-rated Illinois 86-83.

Elsewhere, top-rated UCLA raced to its 16th victory without a defeat this year by clouting Stanford 102-84; third-ranked St. Bonaventure beat Niagara, 8981; No. 4 South Carolina stopped Duke 67-55; No. 8 North Carolina State clubbed Clemson 11987 and No. 9 North Carolina tripped Maryland 77-69.

A Maravich one-hander from 23 feet out, a typical arching missile, with 4:43 left in the game pushed him past Robertson and triggered a spillover from the stands.

"Look, we've still got to finish the game," he pleaded, pointing to the game clock as teammates hoisted him aloft.

Maravich said he may have been pressing after tieing Robertson's mark with his 38th point. He missed four shots in a row.

"I was off balance on a few of those shots," said the tousledhair Maravich, famous for playing with ill-fitting socks.

Vanderbilt Coach Roy Skinner said it was the Commodores' "ability to cut off Kentucky's fast break" that toppled the tough Wildcats.

Tom Arnholt scored 28 points for Vanderbilt and Dan Issel led Kentucky with 26. The defeat spilled the Wildcats from first place in the Southeastern Conference.

Notre Dame's Austin Carr rifled in 36 points as the Irish whipped Illinois in the second game of a doubleheader at the Chicago Coliseum. Ball-stealing Chicago of Loyola, with five players hitting in double figures, stole the opener from Marquette.

UCLA remained the only unbeaten team in the Top Ten with its victory over Stanford; Bob Lanier scored 22 points to lead St. Bonaventure over arch-rival Niagara; South Carolina built an unsurmountable, 15-point halftime lead to conquer Duke; North Carolina State just ran Clemson off the floor and North Carolina came back from a 17point first half deficit to down upstart Maryland.

Wake Forest shaded No. 11 Davidson 74-73; Utah State upset No. 12 Houston 91-84; Wisconsin turned back No. 13 Ohio U. 91-84; 14th-ranked Penn beat Cornell 64-60; No. 15 Southern California took California 78-73; No. 16 Drake defeated Memphis State 82-76; Columbia, No. 17, blasted Princeton 76-52; Florida State, No. 18, whacked Virginia Tech 83-73, No. 19 Kansas State squeaked by Missouri 64-63 and 20th-rated Iowa whipped Indiana 100-93 in other games.

One-Time Polio Victim Pulls out Playoff Win

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pete Brown, a one-time polio victim who learned his golf on the formula of "play three holes and run," was given a second chance by Tony Jacklin and Jack Nicklaus and ran right into the biggest payday of his life.

"I choked," the soft-spoken Brown said Sunday after missing a four-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole that would have given him the title outright in the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

But he conquered the growing pressure that built while he waited for Jacklin and Nicklaus to play the 501-yard, par-five final hole, then won a suddendeath playoff for his second title in a 17-year pro career.

Nicklaus, the leader or coleader through the first three rounds, and Jacklin needed birdies on the final hole to tie. Nicklaus was shor in two, chipped close and missed a four-foot putt.

Jacklin put a three-wood just on the back fringe in two, putted from 12 feet and missed. He tapped in for a bird.

But on the first extra hole the young Englishman put his tee shot behind a tree, hit the tree and was on in three, about 10 feet away. Brown was on the fringe in two, putted to within 18 inches and watched while Jacklin missed. Hetapped in and it was over.

Brown, one of the few Negroes on the tour, fired a stunning, seven-under-par 65 on the final round to come from seven strokes back and gain a tie at 275. Jacklin had a 71 and the downcast Nicklaus a 72, with Jack finishing third at 276.

Nicklaus said he was dropping off the tour for an undetermined length of time.

Tom Weiskopf had a 69 for 278 and was followed by Grier Jones, 66, and Terry Dill, 74, at 279. The group at 280 included Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Don January, Tommy Aaron, and George Knudson.

Brown is sponsored by Jim Brown, the former pro football star. His only previous victory was in the 1964 Waco Turner Open. Brown, the father of four, made only $20,000 on the tour last year and had to survive Monday qualifying rounds to make it into the tournament.

He had an opening 76, then followed with a pair of 67s before the charge that made up so much ground.

"I didn't think I had a chance to win," Brown said. "You just don't make up seven strokes with people like Jacklin and a Nicklaus in front of you."

Brown, who now lives in Los Angeles, has been a pro since he was 18 and started his golfing career as a caddy in his native Jackson, Miss., on segregated courses.

"We'd sneak on either real early, six in the morning, or real late, just before dark, play three holes and run," he said.

He suffered a polio attack in 1956 and was bed ridden the entire year. He still suffers muscular problems that force him to take a rest about every fourth week.

He came back—but didn't make it big until this tournament.

Presidential Vetoes

The U.S. president with the record of having vetoed the greatest number of bills was Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He vetoed 631 bills, but this was in a 12-year period. During a two-term period, Grover Cleveland vetoed 584 bills.

K-State Coach Not Ready to Claim Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It sounded strange coming from a coach whose team is off to a 5-0 start in a conference basketball race and already owns a two-game lead over its nearest rivals in the loss column, but Kansas State's Cotton Fitzsimmons wasn't positive Sunday his Wildcats are Big Eight contenders.

"It doesn't really make things any different," Fitzsimmons said of K-State's 5-0 record after beating Missouri 64-63 Saturday at Manhattan, Kan.

"If we'd really been a title contender at the start of the year," Fitzsimmons added, "it would be a tremendous boost to our team. But we weren't a contender to start with, and we've been very fortunate to come as far as we have.

"There are nine conference games left. After Monday night, when we play Iowa State, there will be eight left, and five of them will be on the road for us. I'm happy we're in this position but you've got to be realistic in this league."

Kansas State, Fitzsimmons said, is not going to run away with the Big Eight title. "If Colorado, for example, has gotten off to this kind of start, we could all be worrying," he said. "But we're not Colorado."

The Buffaloes, as a matter of fact, found themselves three games back of Kansas State after bowing 75-73 to Kansas Saturday in the other television game. Colorado is 2-3 and on the brink of elimination.

Kansas and Nebraska, which beat Oklahoma 70-60 at Norman, Okla., despite having three players ruled ineligible, are tied for third at 2-2.

Missouri remains second at 3-2, but faces still - dangerous Colorado tonight at Columbia, Mo., and could be just as bad off as the Buffs by Tuesday, Oklahoma goes to Kansas and Nebraska to Oklahoma State in other games tonight.

Fitzsimmons had only to look at next weekend's schedule to dampen the enthusiasm of KState fans. The Wildcats go to Colorado Saturday and to Iowa State next Monday.

"If we drop both road games next weekend," he said, "I'm just certain the conference will be tied up. I thought it would go down to the last match, and I haven't changed my opinion of that."

Colorado Coach Sox Walseth said he still thinks it's too early to tell who will win the Big Eight, and Kansas Coach Ted Owens wouldn't rule out any of the top six teams. "I think we're about as good as any team in the conference," said Owens, "and I think Colorado still is in the race."

Kansas State overcame a fivepoint Missouri lead in the last seven minutes, then won on Wheeler Hughes' two free throws and Missouri mistakes in the final two minutes. David Hall had 20 points for the Cats and Don Tomlinson 19 for the Tigers.

Pierre Russell grabbed a rebound and hit a short jump shot with three seconds left to give Kansas its win over Colorado. Dave Robisch paced the Jayhawks with 38 points and Cliff Meely had 28 for the Buffs.

Despite losing top scorer Marv Stewart, Jim Brooks and Cliff Moller because of scholastic troubles, Nebraska handled Oklahoma with surprising ease.

Frick, Combs, Haines Enshrined

NEW YORK (AP) — Ford C. Frick, the former commissioner, and a couple of players who sparkled in baseball's spotlight four decades ago have been elected to the Hall of Fame.

The ex-players are center fielder Earle Combs of the New York Yankees and knuckleball pitcher Jesse "Pop" Haines.

The three, all in their 70s, were elected to the Hall Sunday by the Old Timers Selection Committee. Together with Lou Boudreau, they will be enshrined in the Hall in Cooperstown, N.Y. next July.

Frick, 75, was honored for his contributions to baseball as a long-time executive who served from 1934 until his retirement in 1965.

Frick did not become eligible until he resigned Sunday morning as chairman of the selection committee.

Frick joined the National League in 1933 as a member of its publicity staff and a year later was named league president. He held that post until he became commissioner in 1951.

As commissioner, Frick said the baseball expansion program and founding of the Hall of Faoe were among the most notable achievements of his tenure. He termed the Hall's establishment as "one of the greatest things that ever happened to baseball."

Combs is now 70. He was the leadoff hitter on some of the Yankees' greatest clubs in the 1920s. Often, he was on base when Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig or Tony Lazzeri came to bat.

Joe Cronin, American League president and a member of the selection committee, described Combs as the "tablesetter for Ruth and Gehrig."

Combs batted left-handed and threw right. He collected more than 200 hits in a season three times and scored more than 100 runs eight years in succession from 1925 through 1932, hit more than .300 eight times with a high of .356 in 1927.

Haines, 76, said he "was in hopes, and my hopes came true. I'd hoped that if I was ever going to get into the Hall, it would come before I passed on."

Most of the right-hander's career was with the St. Louis Cardinals. He pitched one game for Cincinnati in 1918 before he hurled 18 straight seasons for the Cards.

His record included 210 victories and 158 defeats. He won three and lost one in four World Series. Haines reached the coveted 20-victory mark three seasons.

Ironically, Haines' greatest thrill came during his poorest season. In 1924, he pitched a nohitter against the old Boston Braves and was the first Cardinal to turn in a no-hit performance since 1876.

All three were elected unanimously. The Old Timers Committee votes on eligible players who have been out of the game at least 20 years. Executives, 18 of whom have been elected, are eligible six months after they reach the age of 65.

Central State, Drury Stay Unbeaten In MIAA, MCAU Conference Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Central Missouri State and Drury College roll on undefeated in Missouri conference basketball action, with nothing on the immediate horizon to topple them from their perches.

MBTA Favors Toll Road Amendment

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The board of directors of the Missouri Bus and Truck Association has gone on record favoring a proposed constitutional change to permit the building of toll roads in Missouri.

The amendment was passed by the legislature last year on the recommendation of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes. He has not indicated whether the voters will pass on the proposal at next November's general election or at an earlier special election.

The association said the directors decided in favor of the toll road proposal after hearing both sides of the argument. Under the plan, gasoline tax funds could be used to pay off revenue bonds if tolls did not provide enough money.

IN THE MIDDLE

With Dan Whittle

I recently received two letters from a friend who related thoughts with such feeling and compassion they are worth passing along to others. Before dealing with the letters it should be noted the man was stricken four years ago with an oftentimes incurable and fatal disease.

His first letter began:

"My friend:

"As you well know progress in a person's life is hindered at various times and oftentimes we never understand the reasons. Happiness is the same at times. Regardless of the setbacks, though, one must continue to live as happily as possible and adjust to those things that tend to be upsetting.

"My inability to adjust to my health situation in the beginning proved this point to me. But I finally realized, just before it was too late, I must accept and acknowledge my problem.

"Not once in the beginning did I show my wife I had the strength to adapt and live our life the best possible way.

"Once I did begin making adjustments, such as not working, socializing, etc., our relation returned to near normal."

He continued the letter and elaborated about some of the more personal aspects of his family situation. It was apparent he had the situation well in hand.

He began his second letter:

"My sister was over last night. She and Bill (her husband) have again separated. It just doesn't seem they will ever be able to settle down together. It's a damn shame. They are good persons.

"It seems he drinks too much and at the same time she is to demanding. Some compromising must come before either have any degree of happiness.

"Bill (a mutual friend) was by to see me last week. His promotion at the office did not come through. He was really disappointed, and in my estimation rightfully so. He has given his all, so to speak, to the company. I guess his age was against him. He is really disappointed. He also mentioned his wife is expecting again. Maybe old Bill is more perky than his company though.

"Speaking of infants, Mae and I also are striving to bring new life into the world. It may have already happened, for I have never seen her more radiant. Of course, it could be the weather."

My friend continued, speaking of additional problems of mutual friends.

It was in the concluding paragraph he said he was going to live.

"Oh, yes. I must include in this letter something of a miracle for Mae and myself. The doctor finally informed me last month my disease has been arrested, at least temporarily if not permanently. Time will tell. We both feel a miracle has happened for us and there is real hope."

My friend had cancer. In the beginning it was thought he could not win the battle for life.

STATE SCIENTISTS FIGHT POLLUTION IN MISSOURI

Nine and a half billion pounds of solid waste are disposed of one way or another by Americans each day. Much of it finds its way into rivers and streams, and Missouri is no exception.

Few Americans are lucky enough to drink water that somebody else has not used for other purposes upstream. Missouri is fortunate in that none of its rivers are named in President Nixon's advisory commission on Population Growth and the American Future as one of the nation's filthiest rivers.

But what about next year? Or the year after?

Missourians are concerned, and many are fighting the problem. Dr. Coy G. McNabb and several of his colleagues are taking steps to save Missouri's waters, as McNabb puts it, from becoming another "Lake Erie."

McNabb, extension professor of agricultural economics at the University of Missouri (Columbia), has been concerned about water pollution for many years, and says the College of Agriculture has been fighting the problem for nearly two years.

"Creating awareness of the problem" is a first step, McNabb said. Increasing population and affluence account for much of the water pollution problem. The more consumption, the more waste. Technological advances have placed the American in a position where he figuratively might drown in his own affluence (or effluence).

Industrial, metropolitan and sewage wastes are not the only causes of pollution, in fact they don't constitute half of the pollution problem because they are at least partially broken down before being discharged into streams and rivers.

Soil erosion, pesticides, fertilizer and waste from confinement feed lots make up a major part of the state's pollutants. Not only are they raw materials when dumped into he waterways, but they are geographically spread around the state and contaiminated almost all waters.

The price to combat what essentially might be self-destruction is high, McNabb warns, but the choice is a clear-survival.

The College of Agriculture extension division is off to a start in creating awareness of the pollution problem as a first step in stopping pollution. The State Water Pollution Board has helped in his endeavor. The College of Agriculture issues regular guides, bulletins and newsletters to inform and instruct farmers and persons interested in stopping pollution hazards.

Regular meetings are held throughout the state to give people an opportunity to discuss possible solutions. Field staffs have been organized in every county in the state to distribute publications and offer advice when asked. Agricultural engineers are involved in owrking out designs to perfect feedlots which will reduce water pollution. The evolution of hard surface feedlots for confining and feeding cattle and other livestock scientifically has led to he practice of washing wastes from the livestock off the lot into nearby ditches and eventually into streams and rivers.

Reaction by farers to the University's pollution control efforts has been favorable. Half a dozen meetings have been held throughout the state in the last few months and six more are scheduled.

As yet no new legislation has been introduced to regulate crop production, setting fertilizing dates or restricting feed lot sewage disposal methods. The University is interested in protecting the farmer, McNabb says: "If we set up real stringent regulations, we greatly hamper this part of our economy."

If interest in the meetings and the publications is a sign, farmers are definitely interested in doing their part in combatting the pollution problem, just as they have been in so many other conservation efforts

McNabb and his colleagues are pleased with the response. "We are meeting a real need," he says, and, because pollution is getting worse every day at an accelerated rate, "we have to do a good job."

Need for Feedlot Act Under Study

JEFFERSON CITY — In action taken at the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation's 1970 commodity conference, a recommendation was made to determine if a feedlot registration act should be introduced in the next general session of Missouri legislature.

It was agreed that MFBF should work with the University of Missouri college of agriculture, state commodity organizations, and other agencies to set guidelines to prevent water and air pollution by feedlots if such a legislation is necessary.

Some 100 commodity leaders met in various commodity interest groups to formulate recommendations and guidelines for Missouri Farm Bureau to follow for a more effective commodity program.

Committees represented include livestock, dairy, poultry, field crops, and fruits and vegetables.

Committees are composed of Farm Bureau members producing the respective crops nd advisory members from the UMC college of agriculture and extension division, the Missouri department of agriculture, the American Farm Bureau Federation, and other state commodity organizations.

The fruits and vegetables committee believes that more research is needed to establish facts before banning certain pesticides and herbicides used on growing crops. They recommended establishing means of combating emotional outbreaks by the public brought about by publicity toward the use of certain pesticides not substantiated by accurate facts.

It is believed by the livestock committee that the beef cattle industry in Missouri has great potential for expansion. They believe that Missouri should strive to become the number two state in the nation in the production of feeder calves -- beef and dairy.

The dairy committee urged MFBF to cooperate with the Missouri Department of Agriculture in developing standards for milk other than Grade A that would comply with USDA standards. They further stated they believe the age for clean test on official calfhood vaccination for brucellosis should remain at 30 months.

A bonding and licensing law for grain dealers was recommended by the field crops committee. They also advocated grain bank operations be covered under this law.

The poultry committee asked that Farm Bureau help in getting needed changes in turkey grading and inspection and inssuance of producer grade certificates.

All committes agreed that MFBF support those commodity organizations which are initiating petitions for referendum leading toward formation of merchandising councils.

301 City Car Licenses Issued

NEW MADRID — City collector Jack Long said today 361 automobile licenses have been issued and deadline for purchase of stickers is 5 p.m. Monday. Annual sales average about 700.

Automobile owners are required to display the 1970 license after Monday.

City Marshall O. E. Householder said roadblocks will be set up to check on licenses and automobile owners, who do not have a license displayed will be subject to arrest and fine.

Licenses cost $5.25 for all vehicles and are available at the city collector's office.

Hearnes Tells Of Importance Of Farming

JEFFERSON CITY -- Agriculture's importance to Missouri was highlighted in Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' proclamation of February as "Missouri Farm Bureau Month."

Hearnes noted that Missouri continues to be one of the nation's leading agricultural states with marketing receipts form Missouri agricultural products exceeding a billion dollars annually.

Calling attention to the valuable personal contributions of Missouri farmers to their government as citizens, Gov. Hearnes recognized the use of farmers' influence through their Farm Bureau organization to improve community environment and to encourage good government. He also recognized that Farm Bureau members believe in, practice, and support principles dedicated to the preservation of a Christian nation.

Missouri Farm Bureau President C.R. "Dick" Johnston, a Springfield dairyman, said the special month will be busy for most of the county Farm Bureaus across the state. Many will be holding special membership drives and livestock dinners in recognition of the importance of the industry in their county.

Last year, Johnston said, Missouri Farm Bureau ended its membership year with 47,038 members, with every county Farm Bureau in the state reaching or surpassing its quota. MFBF's goal for 1970 is 50,000 members.

"In today's rural - urban population balence," Johnston said, "the individual farmer can no longer stand alone in such areas as marketing and legislation concerning agriculture. We must face our problems together, as a unified organization of Farm Bureau farmers."

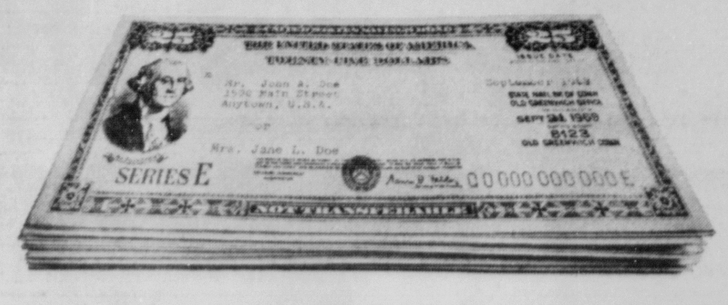
Now all your U.S. Savings Bonds pay higher interest.



Now it's official.

Now one of the safest investments in the world brings you new and higher returns.

Now your U.S. Savings Bonds pay the highest interest in history: a full 5 per cent when held to maturity of 5 years and 10 months. (4% the first year; 5.20% thereafter to maturity.) Previously, these Bonds earned you only 4¼% if you held them for seven years.

The new interest began June 1, 1969. So all of the Bonds you own, no matter when you bought them, have been collecting higher interest since that time.

Those Bonds are still replaced if lost, stolen or burned.

You can still buy them through Payroll Savings or the Bond-a-Month plan.

Regardless of your other investments, can you think of any easier, better, or safer way to build a nest egg for yourself?

It's nice to know that you are doing a little something for Uncle Sam, too. The $52 billion in U.S. Savings Bonds now outstanding in the hands of millions of Americans go a long way toward keeping your country financially strong.

There never was a better time to take stock in America.

There's a man at the place where you work who can start you on the Payroll Savings Plan right now.

UNITED STATES SAVINGS BONDS

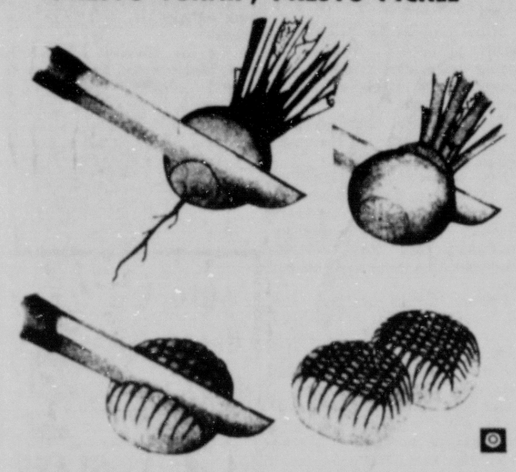
PRESTO TURNIP, PRESTO PICKLE



"Try not to think of me as a back-seat driver, dear. Think of me as a co-pilot."

To make Presto pickles from Presto turnips, wash the turnips after pulling them, cut off roots and stems squarely. Then make criss-cross cuts, as shown, on one of the cut surfaces. These permit quicker penetration of the vinegar.

From Japan comes a new, very small turnip that can not only be grown in your garden but also made into the speediest pickle you ever tried.

The name of the turnip is Presto because it matures so fast. It is ready for pickling within a month after seeds are sown! The pickle also is called Presto because it can be made overnight!

In Japan seeds of this turnip are sown from February until March. Gardeners in the mid-South can follow the same schedule. But Presto will not grow in either very hot or very cold climates.

Once the turnips have reached pickling size, the rest is easy. Pull the turnips, wash them and cut off, squarely, the roots and the stems. Then make criss-cross cuts over one of these cut surfaces. The cross-hatching allows quicker penetration of the vinegar used in pickling.

Soak the cut turnips for 30 minutes to an hour in a brine of 1 tablespoon of salt to 2-2/3 cups of water. Remove at the end of that time and soak overnight or longer in a solution of 5 tablespoons of vinegar and 2-1/2 tablespoons of sugar. The amounts of salt and sugar may be adjusted to suit your taste.

Serve the Presto pickles as a side dish or as an hors d'oeuvre. Bits of red hot pepper or pimento mixed with the turnips set off their appearance and give a tangy taste.

Life Insurance Pays For Death in Crime

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Elmer Meek was a genial and unaggressive individual who, during the working hours, kept his nose to the grindstone. But at night, as if he had guzzled an evil potion, he came a one man crime wave by holding up members of the community. Unfortunately for Elmer, however, he was a bit of a stutterer, nd before he could fully get out "Your money or your life!" his intended victim shot and killed him.

Unabashed, the administrator of Elmer's estate thereafter filed a claim to collect under Elmer's life insurance policy.

"You have more nerve than Elmer had, " responded a representative of the insurance company. "Elmer was killed while committing a hold - up. And you want to collect on his life policy? It's ridiculous! It would also be against public policy to permit someone to benefit from his crimes."

"It may sound ridiculous to you," retorted the administrator, "but not to me. Since your policy says nothing about excluding payment if death occurs during the commission of a crime, as administrator of Elmer's estate, I'm entitled to collect under he policy."

Whereupon, the administrator took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the insurance company pay out on the policy?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that in the absence of a provision in a life insurance policy excluding payment if death occurs while committing a crime, payment must be made. And, concluded the judge, payment is not against public policy since, if the possibility of death did not deter Elmer from his nightlife of crime, surely the failure of benefits to his creditors and loved ones would not have deterred him either.

Booth's Words

"Tell mother I did it for my country" were the last recorded words of John Wilkes Booth, in defense of his assassination of President Abraham Lincoln.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"Forgive us the wrong we have done, as we have forgiven those who have wronged us." Matthew 6:12, NEB)

PRAYER: Help us, God, to pray not only for ourselves, but to remember others who are Thy children -- even those who have wronged us. We especially ask Thy blessing upon those who love and serve Thee and their fellowmen. Amen.

HONORS FOR THE KIDS

FRANKFORT, Ky (AP) Kentucky schoolchildren can boast a status almost equal to their parents on honorary awards.

The parents may get Kentucky Colonel commissions, but the little folk are eligible for "Honorary Page" commissions from the General Assembly.

House Speaker Julian Carroll estimates he has signed at least 20,000 page commissions since the 1968 session.

Agnew Says American People Need Not Be Fooled by Masochists

BALTIMORE (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says his 25-day trip to Asia convinced him U.S. prestige is high and it 'it is time for the American people to stop eating themselves up over the few malcontented words of dissidents who don't know what is going on in the world."

Speaking to 1,000 friends and political supporters from both parties at a testimonial dinner Friday night, the vice president said the trip reinforced his belief that "what we have in the United States is not a prime operating target for national masochism.

"The regard that the United States is held in the rest of the world," he added, "is something that every American should have a chance to see, and something that I would hope more American conveyors of information would see fit to portray."

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Feb. 2, the 33rd day of 1970. There are 332 days left in the year.

This is ground hog day. If the ground hog emerges and sees his shadow, the winter will be a long one.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1848, Mexico signed a treaty with the United States, agreeing to cede a vast area for payment of $15 million. Included was what is now Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

On this date:

In 1535, the Argentine city of Buenos Aires was founded.

In 1635, New Amsterdam (now New York) was incorporated by the Dutch.

In 1870, doctors disclosed that the so-called "Cardiff" giant—discovered on a farm near Cardiff, N.Y.—was not a petrified man but a hoax.

In 1876, eight baseball teams banded together to organize the National League.

In 1943, Radio Berlin acknowledged the end of the World War II battle of Stalingrad. More than half a million Germans had been killed or wounded.

In 1961, 600 passengers aboard the hijacked Portuguese liner "Santa Maria," landed at Recife, Brazil.

Ten years ago — the French National Assembly gave President Charles de Gaulle power to rule by decree to solve the Algerian problem.

Five years ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson sent his special assistant, McGeorge Bundy, to South Vietnam to reassess the situation in the war-torn country.

One year ago — French President Charles de Gaulle announced a national referendum on a plan to reorganize government control.

Thanks for Ditty Bags Servicemen Write

NEW MADRID — Servicemen in Vietnam who received Christmas ditty bags through the New Madrid County chapter of the American Red Cross have written letters of appreciation to persons who helped in the annual project.

Mrs. G. H. Fairless, Kewanee, received a letter from staff sergeant Freddie Brown Jr. on behalf of adviser team 33, in which he wrote:

"I'm writing a letter of thanks for the Xmas package that I received, not just a letter of thanks from me, but I want to let you know that everyone of us, over here, appreciate what the wonderful people back in the States are doing for us.

"At the present time I am an adviser to the Vietnamese 8th A.R.V.N. calvary. My job isn't a bad one, but it does get a bit tiresome at times. Also I miss my family very much.

"This is my second tour over here, so once I leave this time, I'm hoping not to come back anymore."

"Again I want to thank all of you that made the gifts possible; also we appreciate the thoughtfulness and understanding that you (the majority group) have shown us. It is Americans like you that make us proud to be Americans."

Frank C. Boyd, a member of adviser team 26, wrote Miss Marguerite Dawson, New Madrid:

"I was the happy recipient of your Christmas gift– I would like to take time out from my duties to thank you for making my Christmas day a little brighter. It is people like you that makes this world of ous joyful to live in. All the men on my team did receive a gift and we were just like a bunch of kids on Christmas day.

"I've been over here since July last year and hope to return home in five months."

Field director John B. Roberts of the American Red Cross with the First Air Cavalry division in Vietnam acknowledged receipt of 67 ditty bags from New Madrid county Red Cross chapter in good condition and on time. The ditty bags were distributed to units December 24 for delivery to Skytroopers on Christmas day.

He wrote: "Please be assured that this is a worthwhile project and greatly appreciated by the military. Considerable interest has been generated in Project 69, as the convoys brought the conex containers to our forward areas from division rear.

"We, here, my staff and the officers and skytroopers of the First Air Cavalry Division are very proud of your fine chapter volunteers and staff for all your efforts and most thankful of the generosity of the willing donors."

THE PENNEY STORY

"The best darn values in the country"

By ROBERTA NASH

My first job, when I came to Penney's, was to learn about the company by talking with its people. My notes contain the things they said. I wish it were as easy to describe the people.

My frustrated typewriter writes words like pride . . . honor . . . dedication . . . esprit de corps . . . enthusiasm.

That last word sends me back to my notes. A store manager who said, "You'll find we're quite a bunch. The thing we have in common is our enthusiasm—to give the public the best darn values in the country." (Only he used a more enthusiastic word than darn.)

Two Hayti Residents Killed on Highways

Two Hayti residents were killed in highway accidents over the weekend.

Willie E. Southern, 49, Hayti, was killed Saturday at 8:50 p.m. on highway 84, one half mile east of Hayti.

Charlene Hamilton, 35, Hayti passenger in a car driven by her husband, was killed Sunday at 1 a.m. on route Z in Pemiscot, three miles north of Braggadocia.

Southern was driving a 1960 Ford on the wrong side of the road, the state patrol said, when he struck a 1961 Chevrolet station wagon, driven by James Clifford Hall, 25, Caruthersville, headon.

Three passengers in the Southern car were injured and taken to Pemiscot County hospital in Hayti. Rada Southern, 41, his wife, received fractures of both legs, internal injuries and cuts. She is in a critical condition.

Ray Winchester, 38, Hayti, was injured critically and Claud Winchester, 39, Hayti, was injured seriously.

David Hamilton, 31, Hayti, husband of Charlene Hamilton, was driving a 1963 Chevrolet at a high speed, the patrol said. He lost control, ran off the road and overturned while rounding a curve.

Mrs. Hamilton's body was taken to the T. J. Smith Funeral Home in Hayti.

Her husband was seriously injured and taken to a Memphis hospital.

Richard Reed, 46, East Prairie, received minor injuries in an accident Saturday at 9:30 a.m., on route D, one mile north of the Dogwood community.

James Lipford, 42, East Prairie, was driving a 1966 Pontiac, when a tire blew out and his car struck a 1968 Pontiac, driven by Reed, who went on the shoulder in an attempt to avoid a collision.

Reed was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Five Arrests

Police reported three were charged during the weekend with careless driving. They were described as Benson Forrest, 323 Pam, Willie J. Ellis, 227 Petty, and Joseph Layton, Charleston.

Dusty Houston, East Prairie, was charged with displaying a dangerous weapon and carrying a concealed weapon.

Dewayne Boley, route one, Oran, was charged with disturbing the peace and assault.

Budget Honed To Slender Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon made good today his vow to deliver a balanced budget for fiscal 1971, but its shaky surplus—$1.3 billion on a record $200.8 billion spending total— was pinned on a doubtful prospect of cooperation by Congress.

Nixon's first budget message to Congress bore the marks of his cost-cutting ax. It chopped $5.8 billion from overall defense outlays, down to $73.6 billion for fiscal 1971; or $71.2 billion for strictly military functions. It canceled or cut $2.1 billion worth of domestic programs described as "low priority."

Space spending was squeezed to $3.4 billion in a 12 per cent cutback. To help make ends meet, Nixon announced a speedup, worth $1.2 billion in fiscal 1971, in the Treasury's collection of excise taxes and income taxes withheld by employers.

Nixon asked for other revenue-boosters, some sure to meet heavy resistance in Congress. They included a variety of "user charges," higher postal rates, a vast $751 million disposal of commodities from the national defense stockpile, and the sale of the governmentowned Alaska RWAILROAD FOR UP+ wards of $100 million. The two controversial sales alone represented much more than half his planned surplus.

The 1971 budget was the nation's first to cross the $200 billion mark. Bulging government costs have caused serious slippage in the current fiscal 1970 budget also, Nixon disclosed. With outlays pushing up to $197.9 billion, Nixon said, the planned surplus of $5.9 billion on next June 30 has shriveled to an estimated $1.5 billion.

But Nixon named seven home-front programs including welfare anticrime and antipollution efforts—"our most urgent domestic needs"—for increased funds in fiscal 1971.

"Reform is the watchword of this administration," the message proclaimed. The President went on:

"This ani-inflationary budget begins the necessary process of reordering our national priorities.

"For the first time in two decades, the federal government will spend more money on human resource programs than on national defense."

Despite the money squeeze on the Pentagon, Nixon said his budget will enable the administration "to meet our international responsibilities by seeking an honorable peace in Vietnam, by maintaining sufficient military power to deter potential aggressors, (and) by exploring with the Soviet Union possible limitations on strategic arms ..."

The seven domestic needs labeled "most urgent" were assigned these increases from fiscal 1970 budget totals:

—$500 million to start the Family Assistance program payments, the core of Nixon's proposed massive overhaul of the welfare system. When and if enacted, and brought to full operation, it will cost $4.4 billion a year.

—$275 million to launch the sharing of federal revenues with the hard-pressed states and cities "before the end of 1971." Nixon unveiled the plan last summer with a promise of $500 million in fiscal 1971. Some officials considered that sum almost embarrassingly small; now it has been cut almost in half.

—$310 million for increased anticrime efforts, for a total of $1.257 billion.

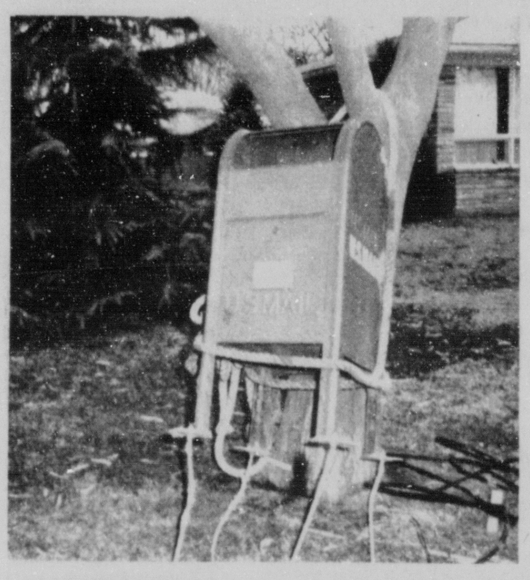
—$330 million for air and water pollution abatement, parks and open spaces, for a total of $1.115 billion.

—$764 million for food assistance programs, to a total of $2.278 billion.

—$468 million for transportation facilities, including a modest $80 million start on a proposed 12-year, $10 billion program to aid urban mass transit systems.

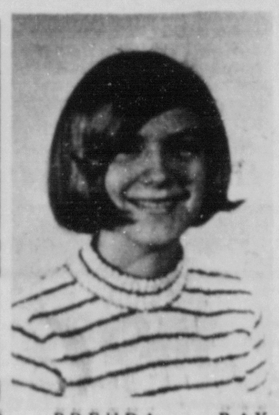
—$352 million for manpower training programs.

TILT! That's what happened to this mail box on the corner of East Gladys and Pine Streets. A skidding vehicle probably struck it when the thoroughfares were icy. The field house is in the background.



TREED! Remember the concrete tiling for telephone cable strung in a row along North Kingshighway? Much of it is now underground. Some of it is beneath the regular location of this mail box. Workmen moved the box and tied it to this tree at the corner of North Kingshighway and Wakefield.

PATTI STAMP, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stamp, a senior at Sikeston high school, will be student director at the high school orchestra's annual winter concert Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafetorium. She will direct as the orchestra plays "Turkish March" by Ludwig Van Beethoven.



BRENDA RAY, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Herman Ray, a sophomore at Sikeston high school will be a piano soloist. The high school orchestra will accompany her as she plays "Exodus" by Ernest Gold at its concert Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafetorium.

Missouri Taxpayers' Share $4.4 Billion

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri taxpayers must provide $4.4 billion as their share of the cost of the federal budget sent to Congress today, Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said.

That is more than four times the amount Missouri taxpayers will pay to the state this fiscal year, the Survey said, and is nearly double the amount they provided to finance federal expenditures seven years ago.

Total federal revenues are estimated at $202.1 billion for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and expenditures at $200.8 billion, providing a surplus of $1.3 billion.

Scott county's share of the cost of the federal budget will be about $25.2 million. It based its calculation its proportion of personal income.

Revised estimates of federal revenues and expenditures for the current fiscal year indicate receipts will total $199.4 billion and expenditures $197.9 billion, with a resulting estimated surplus of $1.5 billion. The surplus for the current fiscal year had been estimated at $5.9 billion as recently as September, the Survey said.

With only a small surplus estimated for the coming fiscal year in the budget sent to Congress today, it could easily become a deficit if spending restraint is not exercised by both congress and the executive branch, the Survey said. Such restraint is an important element in controlling inflation.

Two Charged In Theft of Television Set

Police Chief Arthur Bruce said this morning Billy Ritter, 20, 415 Ruth, and James D. Cridter, 26, of the Delmo housing addition south of Morehouse, have been charged with burglary in connection with he Friday night theft of a television set from Campbell's Appliance Store on Center Street.

Bruce reported David Hooks 17, and Teddy Lathom, 18, both of Matthews, have been picked up for investigation of auto tampering.

The investigation stems from a Friday night theft of a tape player and tapes from a car belonging to Jim Warf, Sikeston.

The chief said a juvenile boy also will be questioned about it.

Thieves Steal Coins from Five Machines

NEW MADRID — Two breakins occurred during the weekend, City Marshal O. E. Householder reported this morning.

An undetermined amount of money from five coin machines was taken in a breakin at the Veterans Club, highway 61 North. Double metal doors on the north side of the building were wedged open for the thief or thieves to crawl into the building.

Mrs. Cornelius Beaher, an employe, discovered the breakin at 2:30 p.m. Sunday when she opened the club.

Bob Ruff, manager of Cargill Inc., reported to police Sunday a window had been broken and the office entered. Nothing was reported missing. An unsuccessful attempt was made to obtain money from a soda machine outside the firm by shooting at the lock with a shotgun.

$200 Stolen In Robbery - Of Jarvis Safe

Police reported about $200 was stolen Friday night or early Saturday from a safe in the front office of the Jarvis Motor Company on North Main.

Officers found crowbars and other safe opening devices near the safe after the robbery was reported at 5:45 a.m. by a salesman, William Palmer, 214 Powers. Papers and bank bags were scattered on the floor.

Police suspect entry was gained through a rotten plank in the back of the building.

Allied Forces Report Killing 500 In Heaviest Fighting in 6 Months

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces claimed they killed more than 500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops over the weekend in the heaviest fighting in six months. The allies reported 21 Americans and 20 South Vietnamese killed, with 160 Americans and 99 South Vietnamese wounded in more than 100 enemy rocket, mortar and ground attacks.

U.S. military spokesmen, assessing the battlefield reports, said the enemy command had launched a pre-Tet "highpoint" of activity along the populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang and in the Central Highlands.

Two American helicopters were downed, with five U.S. and six South Vietnamese killed and seven Americans wounded.

The surge of enemy activity came only a few days before the 40th anniversary Tuesday of the founding of the Vietnamese Communist party and the start Thursday of a four-day ceasefire that the Viet Cong proclaimed for Tet, the festival of the lunar new year.

The South Vietnamese government is expected to announce a 24-hour cease-fire in the next few days.

Allied intelligence officers had said they anticipated an increase in enemy attacks either before or after Tet. Such temporary increases, which fall short of a sustained, countrywide offensive, are called "highpoints" by intelligence officers.

Seventy enemy rocket and mortar attacks were reported Saturday night and another 44 Sunday night, the U.S. Command said. Most were centered in the Central Highlands and the coastal lowlands, and about two-thirds of them were directed at South Vietnamese troops and bases.

Battlefield communiques said that many of the 505 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong reported killed over the weekend were slain by allied bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery.

Spokesmen said some of the enemy dead were reported by aerial observers and others by ground units. This raised the possibility that the number was exaggerated—deliberately, through duplication, or by field commanders sending estimates as actual body counts. This has happened often in the past.

South Vietnamese spokesmen claimed their forces decimated two North Vietnamese infantry companies in fighting along the demilitarized zone and south of Da Nang, and killed a company commander and captured another in a third battle north of Saigon. The South Vietnamese lost a battalion commander in a fourth fight near Quang Ngai City, 80 miles south of Da Nang.

The heaviest fighting was in the northern provinces, but action also was reported in the Central Highlands, along the Cambodian border north of Saigon and in he Mekong Delta.

American troops fared badly in several battles.

A small Marine patrol assessing the results of an American artillery strike 44 miles southeast of Da Nang apparently walked into an ambush. Four Marines were killed and four wounded in a hail of rifle and machine-gun fire.

Two American infantrymen from the 25th Division were killed and nine wounded when about 30 enemy soldiers attacked a night defensive position 34 miles northwest of Saigon with rocket grenades, rifles and machine guns.

Three Arrested After Holdup

NEELYVILLE — The Daberco Farms, owned by Dave and Dan Daberco, was held up by three armed men Sunday at 3 p.m. Three men were apprehended one hour later by the state patrol in Greenville.

Taken in the holdup was $100 in currency and $10 in change, including 10 old 50-cent coins.

A description of the men and their car were given the patrol. Apprehended were James Clarence Whitaker, 24, Breckenridge Hills; James Lloyd McBride, 27, St. Louis, and Timothy Nokes, 23, Bridgeton.

Money and a gun were found on the men, who were taken to the Butler county jail in Poplar Bluff and charged with the robbery.

Women in Two Bootheel Counties Don't Serve on Juries But Believe They Should

This is the first of two stories dealing with women jurors. This article is concerned primarily with the woman's viewpoint.

NEW MADRID -- Women in New Madrid and Pemiscot counties, the 34th judicial circuit, do not serve on juries. Women are not selected as jurors in these counties because their names are not on a list from which a jury is impaneled.

Women's names are not included on the prospective jury selection list because under state law women can be excused from jury duty simply by making a request for release from service.

A random poll of New Madrid women disclosed that women believe the reason they are not summoned is because of out - moded tradition. They said they felt this practice should be changed.

New Madrid women noted in other areas women accept the responsibility and are regularly impaneled for jury duty. They stated they would serve if impaneled.

Five adjoining Boothell counties, Butler, Stoddard, Mississippi, Scott and Dunklin regularly impanel women as jurors or alternates.

Dunklin County Circuit Clerk Brydon M. Ross said "Twenty - five per cent of the women jurors impaneled accept the responsibility and serve." They do not ask to be released, Ross said, unless they have a good legitimate reason.

"I believe women make excellent jurors. We have no problems with them".

Women have been serving on Dunklin county juries since the legislature gave courts the right to impanel them.

Another reason women in New Madrid and Pemiscot counties are not summoned for jury duty is the court houses in the counties lack dual facilities near the court room for men and women.

Circuit Judge William L. Ragland, when asked why women in New Madrid and Pemiscot county are not impaneled for jury duty, said:

"In the past, before I was judge, it looked like every women ever picked wanted to be excused, and finally the board of jury commissioners just gave up on it."

Judge Ragland, who has served for 10 years as circuit judge in the two counties, said he had no objections whatsoever to women jurors.

He said: "I am sent all over where women serve."

Because of family responsibilities, Judge Ragland said he thought it would be hard for a young mother to serve.

Judge Ragland explained facilities were not available in New Madrid and Pemiscot court houses to confine a jury of both sexes.

Qualifications set by state law for jury duty require persons to be a resident of the state, over 21 years, a county resident for one year, sober, intelligent and of good reputation.

The state constitution provides no person may be disqualified as a juror because of sex. Upon request, a woman will be excused from jury service, if the request is made prior to her being sworn.

Other persons released from jury service, upon request, include those over 65 years of age; members of professional groups, including medicine, osteopathy, denistry, chiropractic, clergy, professors, teachers, or a person who has served on a federal, state or grand jury within a year.

A person whose absence from his regular employment might effect the safety or welfare of citizens, such as a pharmacist, will be excused upon request.

At the discretion of the judge, persons may be released from jury service, if such duty imposes undue financial or physical hardships.

Ineligible for jury service are those convicted of a felony and not restored to citizen's rights; misdemeanors involving moral turpitude; or those who cannot read, write, speak or understand English.

Oters who cannon serve are persons on active duty in the armed forces of the United States or any member of the organized militia on active duty under order of the governor; any licensed attorney, a judge of a court of record, or a person, who, in the judgment of the court or other authority charged with selecting a jury panel, has a mental or physical infirmity.

State statutes regulating jury selection in third and fourth class counties require a list containing at least 400 names of prospective jurors, composed of persons from the different townships in the county based upon the population.

From this list, a board of jury commissioners, consisting of county court judges, circuit judge and circuit clerk, an ex officio member, select at ramdom a panel of jurors and alternates to serve during a regular four - month term of court.

All but one woman in New Madrid interviewed said they believed women should be serving on juries. They believe jury duty is a civic responsibility of every eligible citizen.

Three questions asked were:

"Do you feel women should serve on juries?

"Would you be willing to serve as a juror if impaneled?

"Have you ever given any thought about why women did not serve on juries?"

Answers and comments from the women included:

"If I were called upon, I would serve. I feel it would be my duty, and I would go. Women should serve; there is no reason why they should not. I can't imagine anyone against it. I don't feel women are not capable. If I were convinced a person was guilty, I wouldn't mind saying so. I know they serve in other communities."

"I surely do believe women should serve on juries. I feel women are very much capable. I think men and women are both needed. Absolutely I would serve if impaneled. I was asked to serve as a juror in district court at Cape Girardeau when I was teaching school, but my boss wouldn't let me off work."

"I feel women should serve, yes. I would be willing to serve if they would call me. I think they would be definite improvement. My daughter has been called for jury service in New York." This woman said she had thought about why women were not serving jury duty, and thought it was because the town is small and availability of women is limited. She has a woman friend who served on the jury in Jimmy Hoffa's trial in Tennessee.

"I wouldn't want to, but I do feel they should. I would be willing to serve if called. I guess I haven't really thought about why women didn't serve. I realize they haven't If you don't like the system, you can't really say anything unless you are involved. Women are called on to do the work whenever anything is needed to be accomplished."

"I really think they should. I don't know why they wouldn't be as smart as men. Yes, I would serve. If you are for a thing, you should go along with it. I think it is simply tradition. Women haven't stepped out and pushed. It's not lack of qualifications or ir[illegible]igence."

A lone woman who did not favor women jurors said "I wouldn't want to serve. I would just as soon women didn't serve. It has never bothered me that women didn't serve. I think women are too chicken - hearted."

The second of the series will deal with what men and high officials think about women jurors.

Groundhog Decrees Early Spring by Staying in Hole

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (AP) — It'll be an early spring this year, according to Punxsutawney Phil, the weather-forecasting groundhog. He declined for the first time in 20 years to look at his shadow, thus decreeing an end to winter weather.

As tradition has it, if Phil emerges from his burrow and sees his shadow, he returns to wait out six more weeks of winter.

Patrol to Probe Car Shooting

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—Capt. William Thompson of the Illinois State Police said he planned to lead an investigation today into a shooting incident involving a State Police Patrol car.

The car, occupied by troopers, was fired on Sunday afternoon as it patroled in the area of Pyramid Courts, an all-Negro public housing development.

Thompson said three bullets struck the car, shattering the windshield.

State police said troopers Harold Nelson Negro, and John Abercrombie, were not hurt.

State Police said officers have been patroling the Pyramid Courts area for the past three weeks at the request of Father Gerald Moutrov, a white Roman Catholic priest who works in the black community, and Negro leaders.

Budget Cost Near $1,000 Each

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every man, woman and child in the United States will have an average of almost $1,000 committed in the new federal budget.

The $200.8 billion spending figure, divided by the 205 million people the government expects the 1970 census to show for the nation's population, yields a share of $979 each.

Of that, $358 will go for national defense, $17 for space programs, $39 for education and manpower, $245 for income security programs and $86 for interest on the national debt. Smaller amounts will go for a multitude of other items.

James R. 'Red' Nix Killed In Motel, Woman Admits Slaying

MEMPHIS -- James R. "Red" Nix, 51, who was found slain Saturday morning in a motel room, had planned to operate a motel between Sikeston and New Madrid Mo.

Nix, who lived at Covington, Tenn., and Sikeston, apparently was stabbed to death.

Art Garner, owner of the Rail Haven Motel in Sikeston, said he saw Nix one day last week and he thought possibly Nix would operate the Ranch motel on highway 61 south of Sikeston. Garner had pruchased the motel.

Police said Nix was last seen in the Sikeston area about 2 p.m. Friday.

Garner said he knew of no one who would want to kill Nix.

"I think it may have been just a common drunken brawl," Garner said.

A 40 - year - old woman said last night in the presence of two lawyers that she killed Nix early Saturday in a midtown Memphis motel room.

The woman identified herself as Mrs. Delthia 'Dale' Anne Graves but gave no address except, "I've been staying with my brother" whom she did not identify.

Her attorney, allowed a reporter to talk to Mrs. Graves in his office at the 100 North Main building.

The lawyer said the woman's connection with the slaying had not been reported to police at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. But, he said, she would be surrendered and claim self - defense.

Mrs. Graves claimed Nix "was knocking" her about and she cut him with a knife he had given her on a previous occasion. She said she put the knife down to see how badly Nix was hurt and he grabbed a knife which he had.

Saying her memory was "a little vague," she said she probably shot him with a pistol Nix had in the room.

Well - known for his gambling activities, Nix was found dead in room 724 at the Holiday Inn - Midtown, 1261 Union. Police said there was evidence of a stabbing and shooting in the room.

There was a report that several bullets from a small caliber pistol had been found in the room.

Dr. Jerry T. Francisco, Shelby County medical examiner, is expected to rule on the cause of death Monday.

Police said Nix's body had major wounds on the lower right side of the abdomen, in the right side of his chest and at the base of his neck on the right side.

Nix, who had operated gambling places in Tipton County, Tenn., and other places, served time after being convicted in 1951 of an $11,000 robbery of the Kennel Club, a casino which was in the vicinity of Byhalia, Miss.

According to police information, Nix had checked into the motel at 1:02 Saturday morning and had asked for a room for two people.

Nix's attorney, said he had been informed that Nix left Sikeston at 2 to 2:30 p.m. Friday to drive to Memphis, a 150 mile drive. He should have arrived in Memphis around 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Where he was between the time he arrived here and the time he registered at the motel was not determined.

Nix's lawyer was representing him on an appeal of a conviction in Memphis last year on a charge of driving a stolen car across the state line. Nix received three years, but was free on $5,000 bond.

Police were called after motel guests and employes saw blood on the sidewalk in front of Nix's room.

A son, Robert S. Nix, and a daughter, Mrs. Sandra Thornton, both of Covington, identified the body.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

INHOSPITABLE HOSPITALS

Hospital confinement is rarely a pleasant experience. For those willing to pay the increasingly higher costs for privacy and personal care, it can be made more comfortable. For the poor, it is usually traumatic. Municipal hospitals are overcroweded and understaffed, and equipment is often obsolete.

In recent years, the press has brought the crisis to public attention. On Monday, Feb. 2, Frederick Wiseman's new documentary "Hospital" will be shown over the National Educational Television network. Wiseman is the controversial producer - director of "Titicut Follies" - a documentary filmed at a Massachusetts mental hospital. He filmed "Hospital" with no commentary other than the actual scenes at Metropolitan Hospital in New York. With scenes that "may bother the squeamish", it is not intended for children or for those who prefer the honeyed fantasy of a Dr. Kildare. "Hospital" will be broadcast at or after 10 p.m. on local ETV stations.

Wiseman's film comes at a time when many young doctors are trying to correct conditions in urban hospitals. Activists at D. C. General recently threatened to admit all patients needing care. New York City doctors have protested the state legislature's decision to cut hospital funds. Increasing numbers of interns are choosing to work in municipal hospitals instead of wealthier surburban institutions. The problems, however, remain monumental.

TOWARDS A SOLUTION

In these modern times and sometimes strange ways, there are times we might ask: Self-confidence ... who needs it?

For instance ...

The parents who sees the gulf between himself and a son or daughter, but is too fearful to bridge it.

The youth who finds himself in an imperfect world but feels powerless to do anything about it.

The older person who is so unnerved by change that he resists any kind of innovation.

The unionist or businessman who knows what should be done on the job, but who lacks the courage to stand up and say so.

The public official who pays more attention to his popularity than to solving tough problems.

All of us -- individually and collectively -- because we are in danger of losing confidence that we can make headway against such challenges as ... family breakdown ... crime in the streets ... arms reduction .... world hunger ... racial tensions ... educational policy, to participate in decision - making on the local, national and global levels.

And remember, "A mistake is only a friendly invitation to keep trying."

GUILT BY ASSOCIATION

Several months back, you may recall that football Commissioner Pete Rozelle came under fire for delivering an ultimatum to New York Jet's quarterback - playboy Joe Namath. The choice was between remaining in professional football or giving up a lucrative share in a New York nightclub. The reason for the commissioner's demands was the alleged use of the club as a meeting place by known gamblers.

Many were critical of the commissioner's action. But in the light of recent stories implying ties between gambling world characters and professional sports figures, the commissioner acted in a sound manner. The integrity of football sport must be maintained.

A similar story appeared a few years ago in the baseball world. Detroit Tiger's ace outfielder, Al Kaline, owned a string of racehorses. And the Tiger owner requested that - to avoid any hint of scandalous activity - Kalin sell his share of the horses. Without fanfare or argument, Kaline did so. At the time he said that baseball was his bread - and - butter, and he could understand the logic of not allowing any doubt to exist as to any connection between the gambling oriented racing game and baseball.

It is quite probable that much of the problem is due to contacts of an entirely innocent nature. But when it comes to sports stars and gamblers any association, guilty or not, should be avoided.

You may also recall the story of the famed "Black Sox" scandal of 1919. This was the incident which led to the indictment and suspension of eight members of the Chicago White Six ballclub for fraud. One of the team confessed that he had accepted a bribe to allow the Cincinnati club to win the World Series. Although not found guilty in court, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, banned all of the players involved.

We believe that all should heed the warnings of these stories. Sports figures should take the lead of Mr. Kaline and shun the hint of scandal before it can be roused. We are often - rightly or wrongly - judged by the company we keep.

COTTON PROMOTION PAYING OFF

It is just as necessary to promote cotton and cotton products as it is to promote soap, automobiles, or cornflakes.

Several decades ago, a certain brand of soap was number one in sales. The brand was so well known that officers of the company decided advertising was no longer needed. The soap fell lower and lower in the best-seller ranks and finally disappeared from grocery shelves.

The company learned its lesson well, because its toothpaste, soap, detergent, shampoo, and other personal care items are now ranked at the top or near the top. A prime reason is that its advertising budget is the largest of any company in the world.

Cotton farmers are learning a similar lesson. Advertising and promotion are as necessary as production of cotton. If you can't sell it, there's no need to produce it.

Through the dollar - a - bale program of the Cotton Producers Institute (CPI), farmers are promoting the sale of cotton products with a $6.6 million budget. And it's paying off.

The largest mail-order chain in the nation switched back to 100% cotton for its muslin sheets. The world's largest automobile manufacturer switched from synthetics to all-cotton for its landau auto tops.

Jantzen's entire women's sportswear line will be 100 per cent cotton for this spring. Other manufacturers and retailers are swinging back to cotton for tieir first - line items. They've been convinced by farmer support of cotton through the dollar - a - bale program.

The CPI program is working, because cotton farmers are fighting back with their dollars.

HOBBY FARMING FOR TAX DEDUCTIONS

According to what we read and hear, farming just to reap a tax loss is big business.

And for this reason, members of the National Federation of Independent Business were polled and the results showed 74 per cent cast a dubious eye on such "hobby farming" by wealthy people and big corporations.

While millions of Americans eke out a living by farming, some large farms and ranches are operated mainly for the taxable loss which can be applied against incomes from other sources. Because of farm - operating deducations, it's possible to show a tax loss even where cash gain is realized.

Besides the abuse of tax deductions intended for farmers, and the resulting loss of federal revenue, businessmen see other negative aspects of tax-sheltered farming. Farm prices may suffer in part because of tax - motivated farmers who are not concerned with the prices they receive, since lower prices simply mean bigger tax reductions from their major incomes.

And some farm land speculation may be traced to this activity. Movie stars and highly - paid celebrities are among those who seek shelter in farms.

So supporters of the Metcalf and Culver bills believe the $15,000 limit on farm losses would bring in between $200 million and $300 million a year to the Treasury.

The bill would permit tax losses to exceed $15,000 only if these consisted of taxes, interest, losses from theft, fire, storm or drought, and loss from sale or exchange of property. Thus, in effect, it would limit the use of special farm deductions for capital costs and inventory, depreciation on buildings and machinery, livestock depreciation, and the like.

A farm which breaks even on a cash basis but shows a tax loss of $50,000, when substracted from $200,000 income from other sources, can reduce tax liability by $30,000 or more, the Federation calculates.

What is behind this plan is the belief that farming should be left to the farmers.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Finding living space for people instead of parking places for cars may become the big problem of the future. United Nations experts say that if population increases at a two per cent annual rate the number of people in the world will leap from the present 3.6 billion to 4.9 billion by 1985.

Burglars appear to lead safer lives than most criminals. Although burglaries account for 40 per cent of serious crime in the United States, 80 per cent of them are unsolved because of lack of evidence or witnesses.

No one yet has taught a male gorilla to play professional football, but one of these creatures might be developed into an ideal tackle or fullback. Although he stands only about six feet tall, which would probably disqualify him for a career in pro basketball, he weighs 400 pounds or more and has an arm span of eight feet.

Have you a high IQ? It may help you to live longer. A 12year study of 47 elderly men by the Philadelphia Geriatric Center found that those still alive at 80 were more intelligent than those who had died at an earlier age.

Quotable notables: "Popularity is exhausting. The life of the party almost always winds up in a corner with an overcoat over him."—Wilson Mizner.

Humane on the Range: Cryogenic or "freeze branding" of cattle may replace the traditional way in which ranchers now mark their stock. Instead of a red-hot iron, an iron frozen to minus 70 degrees centigrade is used. It causes no pain and doesn't mar the hide. The hair on the branded area grows in white and increases the visibility of the mark.

Beans to dollars: The popularity of the office coffee break has been a big boon to business. Partly as a result of it, the United States now buys almost half the world's coffee production. The average American now drinks 750 cups a year. The total national bill for the habit: $1 billion annually.

Nuts on Wheels: Many Japanese drive like lunatics because that's what they are. Since the discontinuance in Japan of a requirement that aspirants for a license first pass a psychiatric exam, authorities estimate some 160,000 mentally deranged or drug-addicted people now have obtained the legal right to drive.

Worth remembering: "The best thing about the future is that it only comes one day at a time."

History lesson: Can you name the first U.S. President to broadcast in a foreign tongue? He was Franklin D. Roosevelt, who on Nov. 7, 1942, broadcast a message to the French people in their own language as allied armadas were preparing to land in North African French ports.

You have fewer bones when you reach voting age than you did the day you were born. At birth you probably had 33 bones in your spinal column, but as you matured some of the vertebrae fused, and you wound up with 24. Incidentally, your bones, although they are half water, half solid material, are stronger, pound for pound, than steel.

WHAT THE "NO-AD" MAN FORGETS

The non-advertiser invariably has one or more excuses as to why he does not "need' newspaper advertising space.

If this merchant maintains that he has "too much business' he confesses ignorance of the chief function of newspaper advertising as a long - range program designed to build and maintain a reputation for a store. The memory of customers is short and new customers are coming into the retail market every day and every year.

Newspaper advertising during good times will help to build up the reputation of the store as a safeguard against the stresses of a depression. Adversiting in the home paper should be a definite part of the merchandising plan just as are window displays, store displays, clerks, rent on a good location and other merchandising services.

THE MENACE OF CUBA

The menace of Castro's Cuba has been given very little attention in the mass media. Yet this threat exists and should be taken into account by those who formulate our Latin American policies.

Recently Senator Gordon Allott of Colorado pointed out some of the reasons why we should still fear Cuban communism. First, farleft revolutionary groups have been trained in Cuba, and many militant groups are receiving financial help from Cuban communists.

In addition, according to Senator Allott, "refugees continue to report the presence of dangerous missiles on the island". Some recently arrived refugees have said that the number of missiles is greater now than at the time of the missile crisis in 1962.

Castro's goverment is financing and directing espionage activity in the United States. Last summer, several Cuban diplomats at the United Nations had to be denied re - entry into our country because "they conducted intellignece activities and gave financial and directional aid" to militant groups.

Senator Allott also pointed out that Cuba's subversion is directed against the entire Western Hemisphere. He urged our government to help defend "our neighbors in Central and South America" against the imposition of Ccommunist tyranny.

We do the people of Cuba no favor by adopting a neutral attitude toward Castro's government. These people suffer daily under communism, and they are very much aware of the true nature of Castro's government, which threatens the entire Western Hemisphere. We ignore it at our own peril. HLH

FBI Probes Mysterious 25 Days in May

Washington, D.C.: -- Who was that man with the late, martyred Joe (Jock) Yablonski at the Honey In the Rocks Motel, a mile and a half outside of Bekley, W.Va., during the miners' presidential election campaign last year?

Was the mystery man walking with the rebel leader from the restaurant to Mr. Yablonski's room? Or did the "unman" (FBI lexicon for unidentified man) stalk the insurgent? Was the "unman" one of the gruesome trio now being held on murder charges? Or did he merely look like him? Was he bodyguard or killer?

There are a thousand such questions on he FBI special agents sheet. Eventually J. Edgar Hoover's men will answer all of them. Despite all reports there's mighty little that is really known.

What is fact, is that Joe Yablonski was not scheduled to go before a grand jury investigating the United Mine Workers (UMW).

There was no such grand jury. The announcement of thyrebel's impending testimony is a ploy to give the federal authorities the cover under which to move in on the murder which is a state, not a federal, crime.

So the crusading miner could not have been killed to stop him from doing what he was not set to do.

It also can be reported that the U.S. Labor Dept.'s 200 special agents investigating the Dec. 9 national United Mine Workers (Ind.) election haven't discovered any fraud of consequence, and illegalities in the balloting, or na violations among the 800 major locals which would warrant setting aside the balloting results.

This may be reported by Secretary of Labor George Shultz as early as Feb. 7, long before the self - imposed 60 - day deadline. This will not finish the investigation into the miners union which, with control of a large bank here and heavy cash assets, is considered one of the world's wealthiest labor organizations.

That probe will continue and eventually may move the government to call for another election on the grounds that too much money was poured in or that the union's UMW Journal was too heavily weighted in President W.A. (Tony) Boyle's favor.

This hardly is unprecedented. Election reruns invariably repeat the original results.

But the significance here is that the motive for the horrendous triple murders lies not in the actual election mechanism, counting, or outcome.

Far more basic is, what happened during the 25 days in May (1969)?

For years up to May 4, Mr. Yablonski and Tony Boyle supped at the same table, as he late Old King Coal, John L. Lewis, would say.

Mr. Yablonski delivered speech after speech eulogizing Mr. Boyle, whom many of us, including Ralph Nader were criticizing for one reason or another. During the miners' September 1968 Denver convention, Jock Yablonski was one of Presient Boyle's most enthusiastic supporters - at least in public. There are recorded speeches showing that the late rebel talked of Tony Boyle as a legendary leader who was heaven's gift to the men in the black pits.

Furthermore, Mr. Yablonski was chairman of the convention's constitution committee. Those of us who have doodled during a thousand union conventions know that this is considered one of a union's most powerful positions. He was placed there by Tony Boyle.

Finally on May 4, 1969, there was a big miners rally in Charleston, W.Va. This was a cheering, whooping, angry demonstration -- a roaring protest by 2,000 coal diggers -- for new safety and anti - black lung legislation. Jock Yablonski, a bright intellectual, albeit quick - tempered, chap who wrote magazine articles and collaborated on a play with his wife, was master of ceremonies. He spoke of Tony Boyle as a great leader, a fighter for the cause.

Then 25 days later, at a guarded press conference in a Washington hotel, Joseph Yablonski declared for the presidency of the UMW. From then on out he accused Tony Boyle (with whom he had served on he union's executive board for years) of leading a corrupt union. "Jock" angrily hurled charges of "violence, despotism and corruption."

What brought this transformation? What did rebel Yablonski learn in less than a month?

Why had he not spoken out earlier? Whom did he whip up into such a fury of hate that they would plan a triple murder? Were these forces in the lower stretches of the union -- or were they outside?

If he was no threat to the security of Tony Boyle and his team of national UMW officers -- and Jock Yablonski certainly wasn't during the final hours of the '60s -- then to whom was he actually a threat, physically or economically?

Despite all the official statements -- and unofficial leaks -- on the arrests, the real story will be a long time seeping out. This was no act of passion. It was real love of money, not power, real money, big money, not just four grand which went to three flotsam bums.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Ominous complaints have reached the Pentagon that chemical defoliants used in Vietnam may have caused tragic deformities in Vietnamese babies.

The Pentagon wants to shut its eyes and close its ears to this new horror of the war. But despite official denials to this column, it is an absolute fact that such reports are in Defense Department files.

The reports do not offer final proof that dumping defoliants on rain - forest women causes deformed babies in the Thalidomide pattern. Nevertheless, it is worth pointing out that the makers of Thalidomide, cigarettes and birth - control pills all scoffed initially at warnings of damage to the human body.

Up to now, as much as 20 per cent of South Vietnam's jungle and woodland has been sprayed at least once to open up Viet Cong hiding places. Under the picturesque code name "Ranch Hand," American planes have poured chemicals on vegetation and village alike.

Two days after spraying, the leaves turn color as in some hideously speeded - up autumn. A few weeks later, they drop to the gound. The defoliants also have been rained on thousands of acres of crops to kill food grown for the Viet Cong.

In the process, innocent women and children have been subjected to the 'Il sl cloudburst. The Pentagon would like to make it sound as healthy as a Lifebuoy shower. Questioned by this column, spokesman sneered at the reports of deformities. But scientific data lately gives the military drumbeaters a hollow sound.

--DEFORMITIES IN RODENTS--

For example, President Nixon's science adviser, Dr. Lee DuBridge, recently told of laboratory tests of "2,4,5-T," the sprays used widely in Vietnam to defoliate trees and shrubs.

"Off spring of mice and rats given relatively large oral doses of the herbicide during early stages of pregnancy showed a higher than expected number of deformities," said DuBridge.

DuBridge cautiously added that although human harm was improbable, the hervicide's use was being banned or curtailed in a large number of areas, including use on people. The Pentagon, of course, asserted it never had a policy of defoliating people, anyway. Secretary of Defense Mel Laird has emphasized that no incidents of verified "malformed births from defoliation are known."

While the "unverified" reports on Vietnam babies contine to trickle in to the Pentagon, Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., wondering what large - scale use of defoliants may be doing closer to home. He has begun a staff investigation of the defoliation of the Candian -- U.S. boundary. Specifically, he wants to know whether it is poisoning plants, animal life and streams.

--ON OUR OWN BOUNDARIES--

This column has obtained State Department documents showing that a 20 foot swath 1,305 miles long has been defoliated with "picloram," manufactured by Dow Chemical under the name "Tordon 101." It is also used in Vietnam.

The Alaskan boundary and part of the U.S. boundary with Canada is sprayed by helicopter, the State Department acknowledges. This, of course, means that the chemicals sift down into lakes and other water sources.

The chemicals already have been detected in waters of the Waterton National Park, the Canadian counterpart to Glacier National Park. The State Department hedges on picloram's safety, saying there is no evidence it is "direclty" damaging.

But a more impartial scientist, Prof. Richard M. Klein, botanist at the University of Vermont, has given a confidential assesment to the Vermont State legislature.

"Picloram is lethal to small animals such as mice, rabbits and guinea pigs in relatively large amounts," wrote Klein. Rainbow trout, bass and even blue gills die under long exposure to Tordon 101. Danger is heightened when the chemical is mixed with another weed and plant killer for the mixture "will quickly kill sheep."

These interactions, warns the Klein report, call for "extreme caution" because the sheep deaths raise "questions of its safety for animal life, not excluding man." Britain, he added, bans the stuff.

Meanwhile, the Defense Department continues to rain down the potential baby-deformers on Vietnam, as the Agriculture department drags its feet on restricting 2, 4, 5-T.

And the U.S., in cooperation with Canada, dumps Tordon 101 on plants, animals and water sources along our boundary without more than the faintest idea of what it will do to our environments.

Ann Landers

Jury Duty Part Of Working Democracy

Dear Ann Landers: Is the human race having a mass nervous breakdown? What has happened to common decency? Naked people on the stage and thousands of nuts standing in line to pay $23 for a ticket. Four - letter words in campus papers and everywhere youth demanding the right to sleep together in college dormitories.

And now I read where a California psychologist says the best way for a husband to regain lost potency is to have an affair with another woman -- and a woman should be supplied by the therapist.

The therapist makes it clear, however, that it can't be just ANY woman. It must be a woman who is also having a sex problem and is hard up for romance. In this way, the doctor claimed it would be a valuable service to both.

In my day a man who procured women for sex was known as a pimp and it was a pretty lowdown business. Today it is called "therapy" and considered respectable in some fairly high - class places. Please comment.--- Speechless

Dear Speechless: Considered respectable? By whom? Not by me. Nor by any of my medical or psychiatric consultants. Merely because a man is a therapist doesn't mean he has all his marbles. There are kooks in every fieid, and that bud is proof.

Dear Ann Landers: I just finished serving ten days of jury duty. Over 140 people were interviewed before thirteen qualified jurists could be found.

I served at considerable inconvenience and personal sacrifice. After interminable hours of listening, endless note taking and much soul searching, we reached a verdict. I felt as if I had performed a meaningful public service.

It seems a great many of our friends didn't like the verdict. The phone is driving me crazy. "Why did you decide that way? Doesn't you conscience bother you?" Wherever we go, people want to talk about the case and argue with me.

Last night my husband gave me orders. He said, "You'll never serve on a jury again as long as I live. The abuse isn't worth it. If your name gets pulled, you'll have to say you are prejudiced and wish to be excused."

I agreed and I'm glad I did. It wasn't worth it. ---Tired

Dear Tired: I'm sorry you feel as you do because jury service is a vital contribution to our democratic system. I hope you will rethink your decision and, in time, change your mind. We need citizens like you.

Dear Ann Landers: For years I have answered he telephone and heard the party on the other end say, "Who is this?" I then ask, "Whom did you call?" The party often hangs up or yells an obscenity.

Why don't these clods realize that when they intrude on the privacy of others, the responsibility of identification is on THEM, not the person they call.

The well bred individual says, "This is John Doe. Is Mary Jones in, please?" This procedure eliminates the irritating question, "Who is calling?" Pass the word, please. I'm sick of telephone slobs. -- Texarkana

Dear Tex: I've passed it before and I'll do it again. People need to be reminded.

Expressions of delight from everyone, including Cherubs, prompted the naming of this delicious dessert! Rich, but not overpowering, light, but flavorful; the basic fruit and pudding mixture is colorful and refreshing thanks to canned fruit cocktail. The surprising texture in the pudding mix is provided by tapioca.

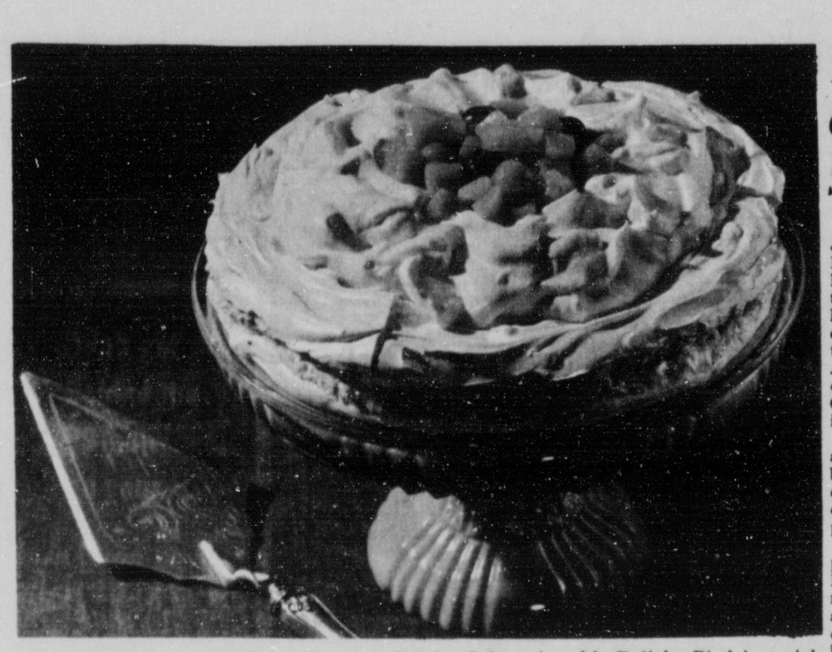
Easily made a day before you're ready to serve it, Cherub's Delight Pie is a wonderful way to offer America's favorite canned fruit mixture -- colorful and refreshing fruit cocktail.

CHERUB'S DELIGHT PIE

½ cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon cream fo tartar
2 egg whites
1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) fruit cocktail
1 package (3 ¼ oz.) lemon tapioca pudding mix
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 pint whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar

SIFT sugar and cream of tarter together. BEAT egg whites until foamy. ADD sugar mixture by teaspoonfuls, beating well after each addition. BEAT until meringue makes stiff gloysy peaks. Spread on well- greased 9-inch pie pan. Bake in 275-degree (very slow) oven 1 hour, until meringue shell is set. Cool away from drafts. Drain fruit cocktail, reserving syrup. Prepare tapioca according to package directions, using reserved syrup instead of milk. Add 1 cup fruit cocktail, nutmeg and lemon juice; chill. Whip cream; add sugar and spread half of whipped cream on meringue shell. Spoon fruit- tapioca mixture into shell. Top with remaining whipped cream. Garnish with remaining fruit cocktail. Chill several hours or overnight before serving.

Makes 8 servings.



CHERUBS are not the only ones delighted by 'cherub's Delight Pie,' just rich enough...

"Top" Hats for the New Year

Tops in fashion, tops in comfort are colorful caps for the young. As new as the New Year itself are hat-and-accessory sets knitted of Creslan acrylic fiber in bell-ringing new patterns and colors. The champ snowball thrower of 1970 chooses a soft, warm cap and mitten set in a bright stripey pattern. His style-conscious older sister goes for the coordinated look of a helmet, mittens and matching scarf in one of fashion's favorite patterns, the precise geometric.

Lakes occupy up to 75 per cent of the total area in parts of northeastern Minnesota and adjacent Canada, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Bridge Winners

Winners at Thursday night's Duplicate Bridge Club were Mrs. E. L. Brown Jr. and Mrs. Virginia Morrow of Charleston; second place Mrs. Charles Goodin and Mrs. E. D. Burnett of Charleston; third place Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Recker of Portageville.

PARIS (AP) — The Paris openings of spring and summer fashion collections ended Saturday with Yves Saint Laurent's presentation, and one thing is clear: midcalf is most popular for the hemlines, although there is a strong miniskirt hangover.

Some designers do not hesitate to drop hemlines to around the ankles. In dressier dinner numbers they look elegant. The young dresses that hit midcalf take on a demure look instead of the aggressive mood of past seasons. They gain in charm and the mood is soft and often tender.

Borders in general are in for attention. On tunics, Cardin has a wide white edge, Patou edges his funnel- flared dresses in navy, in black or white at the neckline and hemline. Chanel borders her suits and coats at the collarless neckline and wrists in a dark braid. This does not eliminate the many crisp white touches, collars, and deep cuffs everywhere.

There are innovations in coats at many houses. The fitted redingote at Dior's with its unpressed back pleat shares honors with Cardin's straight slender back- slashed topcoats. Many coats are sleeveless and show the dress print. Ungaro does them in every length.

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Cardin mingled the sexy with the demure in his spring- and summer fashion opening Friday, presenting at least 10 creative ideas in dozens of different ways.

There is no nudity, but Cardin relies heavily on see-through effects for flitting exposures of the anatomy.

Ankle- length sheaths are slashed at the front with a rounded cutaway section starting at the accepted minilength. The same treatment is shown with the slash in the back, with a plain front, so that legs are still very much in focus.

Again at the minilength point, he cuts ankle- length skirts into vertical maypole ribbons. They are sometimes looped to form harem trousers, or are simply banded at the hemline in a sort of hobble skirt cage.

He makes good use of flat loops in wide effects for mini peplums, to form harem trousers, or are simply banded at the hemline in a sort of hobble skirt cage.

He makes good use of flat loops in wide effects for mini peplums, or in narrow ribbon strips shown in teirs and forming the skirt which may be either mini or midi.

These spaced strips are used in necklines, spirally for skirts and for back decolletes. Round thongs of fabric like macaroni may form multiple shoulder straps, see- through bibs on dress fronts and peekaboo effects in skirts.

More conventional are his ankle- length and midcalf ensembles in soft patchwork tweeds or pale crepes. The tweed went over plain jersey dresses, followed by a series of pastel-printed jersey sheaths with individual detailing.

The dozens of crepe cress and coat ensembles showed bars of color contrasts at their hemlines, sometimes repreated through the midriff or yoke of the dress. These were either pastel contrasts in pale tones or individual detailing.

SEE IT NEW

Clear Through and through are new kitchen helpers bringing the see-through look so popular in home furnishings into the kitchen. Cutting boards, cake knives, pie servers in lucite, plexiglas and acrylic plastics are strikingly handsome.

Lighting Strikes a newly decorative note, with lamps and lighting systems for the home that are more works of art than fixtures. Light sculptures are totally illuminated shapes; flashing colors put on a light show in the living room; even neon is finding a place in the home, handled tastefully and imaginatively by today's designers.

Maravich Replaces Big O As All-Time Scoring King

Drooping socks, flopping hair and all, college basketball's crown prince was holding court.

Pete Maravich glided through helpless Mississippi with the greatest of ease, his regal form twitching toward the basket intent on The Goal.

Then the roar of the crowd rolled down from the stratosphere of the Louisiana State University Coliseum as the LSU wonder boy cracked Oscar Robertson's career scoring record Saturday night.

"He was superb," exulted Coach Press Maravich after watching his panther-lean son score 53 points to give him 2,987 for his career—wiping out Robertson's 2,973.

Maravich gave the arenajamming crowd of 11,000 a happy ending as the Tigers toppled Ole Miss 109-66 in one of the top games in an otherwise upsetstudded Saturday.

Vanderbilt shocked secondranked Kentucky 89-81; Loyola of Chicago upset seventh-ranked Marquette 76-72 and Notre Dame surprised 10th-rated Illinois 86-83.

Elsewhere, top-rated UCLA raced to its 16th victory without a defeat this year by clouting Stanford 102-84; third-ranked St. Bonaventure beat Niagara, 8981; No. 4 South Carolina stopped Duke 67-55; No. 8 North Carolina State clubbed Clemson 11987 and No. 9 North Carolina tripped Maryland 77-69.

A Maravich one-hander from 23 feet out, a typical arching missile, with 4:43 left in the game pushed him past Robertson and triggered a spillover from the stands.

"Look, we've still got to finish the game," he pleaded, pointing to the game clock as teammates hoisted him aloft.

Maravich said he may have been pressing after tieing Robertson's mark with his 38th point. He missed four shots in a row.

"I was off balance on a few of those shots," said the tousledhair Maravich, famous for playing with ill-fitting socks.

Vanderbilt Coach Roy Skinner said it was the Commodores' "ability to cut off Kentucky's fast break" that toppled the tough Wildcats.

Tom Arnholt scored 28 points for Vanderbilt and Dan Issel led Kentucky with 26. The defeat spilled the Wildcats from first place in the Southeastern Conference.

Notre Dame's Austin Carr rifled in 36 points as the Irish whipped Illinois in the second game of a doubleheader at the Chicago Coliseum. Ball-stealing Chicago of Loyola, with five players hitting in double figures, stole the opener from Marquette.

UCLA remained the only unbeaten team in the Top Ten with its victory over Stanford; Bob Lanier scored 22 points to lead St. Bonaventure over arch-rival Niagara; South Carolina built an unsurmountable, 15-point halftime lead to conquer Duke; North Carolina State just ran Clemson off the floor and North Carolina came back from a 17point first half deficit to down upstart Maryland.

Wake Forest shaded No. 11 Davidson 74-73; Utah State upset No. 12 Houston 91-84; Wisconsin turned back No. 13 Ohio U. 91-84; 14th-ranked Penn beat Cornell 64-60; No. 15 Southern California took California 78-73; No. 16 Drake defeated Memphis State 82-76; Columbia, No. 17, blasted Princeton 76-52; Florida State, No. 18, whacked Virginia Tech 83-73, No. 19 Kansas State squeaked by Missouri 64-63 and 20th-rated Iowa whipped Indiana 100-93 in other games.

One-Time Polio Victim Pulls out Playoff Win

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pete Brown, a one-time polio victim who learned his golf on the formula of "play three holes and run," was given a second chance by Tony Jacklin and Jack Nicklaus and ran right into the biggest payday of his life.

"I choked," the soft-spoken Brown said Sunday after missing a four-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole that would have given him the title outright in the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

But he conquered the growing pressure that built while he waited for Jacklin and Nicklaus to play the 501-yard, par-five final hole, then won a suddendeath playoff for his second title in a 17-year pro career.

Nicklaus, the leader or coleader through the first three rounds, and Jacklin needed birdies on the final hole to tie. Nicklaus was shor in two, chipped close and missed a four-foot putt.

Jacklin put a three-wood just on the back fringe in two, putted from 12 feet and missed. He tapped in for a bird.

But on the first extra hole the young Englishman put his tee shot behind a tree, hit the tree and was on in three, about 10 feet away. Brown was on the fringe in two, putted to within 18 inches and watched while Jacklin missed. Hetapped in and it was over.

Brown, one of the few Negroes on the tour, fired a stunning, seven-under-par 65 on the final round to come from seven strokes back and gain a tie at 275. Jacklin had a 71 and the downcast Nicklaus a 72, with Jack finishing third at 276.

Nicklaus said he was dropping off the tour for an undetermined length of time.

Tom Weiskopf had a 69 for 278 and was followed by Grier Jones, 66, and Terry Dill, 74, at 279. The group at 280 included Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Don January, Tommy Aaron, and George Knudson.

Brown is sponsored by Jim Brown, the former pro football star. His only previous victory was in the 1964 Waco Turner Open. Brown, the father of four, made only $20,000 on the tour last year and had to survive Monday qualifying rounds to make it into the tournament.

He had an opening 76, then followed with a pair of 67s before the charge that made up so much ground.

"I didn't think I had a chance to win," Brown said. "You just don't make up seven strokes with people like Jacklin and a Nicklaus in front of you."

Brown, who now lives in Los Angeles, has been a pro since he was 18 and started his golfing career as a caddy in his native Jackson, Miss., on segregated courses.

"We'd sneak on either real early, six in the morning, or real late, just before dark, play three holes and run," he said.

He suffered a polio attack in 1956 and was bed ridden the entire year. He still suffers muscular problems that force him to take a rest about every fourth week.

He came back—but didn't make it big until this tournament.

Presidential Vetoes

The U.S. president with the record of having vetoed the greatest number of bills was Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He vetoed 631 bills, but this was in a 12-year period. During a two-term period, Grover Cleveland vetoed 584 bills.

K-State Coach Not Ready to Claim Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It sounded strange coming from a coach whose team is off to a 5-0 start in a conference basketball race and already owns a two-game lead over its nearest rivals in the loss column, but Kansas State's Cotton Fitzsimmons wasn't positive Sunday his Wildcats are Big Eight contenders.

"It doesn't really make things any different," Fitzsimmons said of K-State's 5-0 record after beating Missouri 64-63 Saturday at Manhattan, Kan.

"If we'd really been a title contender at the start of the year," Fitzsimmons added, "it would be a tremendous boost to our team. But we weren't a contender to start with, and we've been very fortunate to come as far as we have.

"There are nine conference games left. After Monday night, when we play Iowa State, there will be eight left, and five of them will be on the road for us. I'm happy we're in this position but you've got to be realistic in this league."

Kansas State, Fitzsimmons said, is not going to run away with the Big Eight title. "If Colorado, for example, has gotten off to this kind of start, we could all be worrying," he said. "But we're not Colorado."

The Buffaloes, as a matter of fact, found themselves three games back of Kansas State after bowing 75-73 to Kansas Saturday in the other television game. Colorado is 2-3 and on the brink of elimination.

Kansas and Nebraska, which beat Oklahoma 70-60 at Norman, Okla., despite having three players ruled ineligible, are tied for third at 2-2.

Missouri remains second at 3-2, but faces still - dangerous Colorado tonight at Columbia, Mo., and could be just as bad off as the Buffs by Tuesday, Oklahoma goes to Kansas and Nebraska to Oklahoma State in other games tonight.

Fitzsimmons had only to look at next weekend's schedule to dampen the enthusiasm of KState fans. The Wildcats go to Colorado Saturday and to Iowa State next Monday.

"If we drop both road games next weekend," he said, "I'm just certain the conference will be tied up. I thought it would go down to the last match, and I haven't changed my opinion of that."

Colorado Coach Sox Walseth said he still thinks it's too early to tell who will win the Big Eight, and Kansas Coach Ted Owens wouldn't rule out any of the top six teams. "I think we're about as good as any team in the conference," said Owens, "and I think Colorado still is in the race."

Kansas State overcame a fivepoint Missouri lead in the last seven minutes, then won on Wheeler Hughes' two free throws and Missouri mistakes in the final two minutes. David Hall had 20 points for the Cats and Don Tomlinson 19 for the Tigers.

Pierre Russell grabbed a rebound and hit a short jump shot with three seconds left to give Kansas its win over Colorado. Dave Robisch paced the Jayhawks with 38 points and Cliff Meely had 28 for the Buffs.

Despite losing top scorer Marv Stewart, Jim Brooks and Cliff Moller because of scholastic troubles, Nebraska handled Oklahoma with surprising ease.

Frick, Combs, Haines Enshrined

NEW YORK (AP) — Ford C. Frick, the former commissioner, and a couple of players who sparkled in baseball's spotlight four decades ago have been elected to the Hall of Fame.

The ex-players are center fielder Earle Combs of the New York Yankes and knuckleball pitcher Jesse "Pop" Haines.

The three, all in their 70s, were elected to the Hall Sunday by the Old Timers Selection Committee. Together with Lou Boudreau, they will be enshrined in the Hall in Cooperstown, N.Y. next July.

Frick, 75, was honored for his contributions to baseball as a long-time executive who served from 1934 until his retirement in 1965.

Frick did not become eligible until he resigned Sunday morning as chairman of the selection committee.

Frick joined the National League in 1933 as a member of its publicity staff and a year later was named league president. He held that post until he became commissioner in 1951.

As commissioner, Frick said the baseball expansion program and founding of the Hall of Faoe were among the most notable achievements of his tenure. He termed the Hall's establishment as "one of the greatest things that ever happened to baseball."

Combs is now 70. He was the leadoff hitter on some of the Yankees' greatest clubs in the 1920s. Often, he was on base when Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig or Tony Lazzeri came to bat.

Joe Cronin, American League president and a member of the selection committee, described Combs as the "tablesetter for Ruth and Gehrig."

Combs batted left-handed and threw right. He collected more than 200 hits in a season three times and scored more than 100 runs eight years in succession from 1925 through 1932, hit more than .300 eight times with a high of .356 in 1927.

Haines, 76, said he "was in hopes, and my hopes came true. I'd hoped that if I was ever going to get into the Hall, it would come before I passed on."

Most of the right-hander's career was with the St. Louis Cardinals. He pitched one game for Cincinnati in 1918 before he hurled 18 straight seasons for the Cards.

His record included 210 victories and 158 defeats. He won three and lost one in four World Series. Haines reached the coveted 20-victory mark three seasons.

Ironically, Haines' greatest thrill came during his poorest season. In 1924, he pitched a nohitter against the old Boston Braves and was the first Cardinal to turn in a no-hit performance since 1876.

All three were elected unanimously. The Old Timers Committee votes on eligible players who have been out of the game at least 20 years. Executives, 18 of whom have been elected, are eligible six months after they reach the age of 65.

Central State, Drury Stay Unbeaten In MIAA, MCAU Conference Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Central Missouri State and Drury College roll on undefeated in Missouri conference basketball action, with nothing on the immediate horizon to topple them from their perches.

Central's Mules whipped Missouri-Rolla, 82-70, Saturday night for their sixth straight Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association victory. That left Rolla winless in four league games.

In another MIAA contest, second-place Southwest Missouri kept its hopes alive with an 84-73 victory at Southeast Missouri. The Bears, who have lost to Central State, now are 5-1 in the MIAA and Southeast is 1-3.

Northeast Missouri, 2-2 in the MIAA, lost to Quincy, Ill., 88-86, and Northwest Missouri, 0-4 in the conference, trounced Peru, Neb., State, 92-63, in non-conference games.

MIAA action resumes tonight with Central State at Southeast, and Rolla at Southwest. In nonleague affairs, Northwest goes to Washington-St. Louis and Northeast entertains Wichita Sacred Heart of Kansas, an independent with an 11-4 record.

Drury ran off its seventh straight Missouri Collegiate Athletic Union victory, dumping runner-up Culver-Stockton, 87-70 on the latter's home court. Culver now is 5-2 in the MCAU and tied with William Jewell, which beat Tarkio, 72-70. That left Tarkio fourth at 4-3.

Other MCAU games Saturday saw Graceland (3-4) bomb Missouri Valley (1-6) by 105-91, and Central Methodist break a sixgame league losing streak by downing Westminster, 79-77. Westminster is 2-5.

Among the Missouri independents Saturday, Park College lost to Doane, Neb., 95-89; Lincoln bowed to Kentucky State, 82-80; Missouri Southern edged Missouri Western, 68-66; Southwest Baptist routed School of the Ozarks, 111-80; Concordia of St. Louis downed WisconsinParkside, 71-59; Missouri-St. Louis ripped LSU-New Orleans, 117-90, and Rockhurst lost to St. Benedict's, 77-74.

Only game tonight for independents finds Southwest Baptist playing Washburn at Topeka, Kan.

MBTA Favors Toll Road Amendment

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The board of directors of the Missouri Bus and Truck Association has gone on record favoring a proposed constitutional change to permit the building of toll roads in Missouri.

The amendment was passed by the legislature last year on the recommendation of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes. He has not indicated whether the voters will pass on the proposal at next November's general election or at an earlier special election.

The association said the directors decided in favor of the toll road proposal after hearing both sides of the argument. Under the plan, gasoline tax funds could be used to pay off revenue bonds if tolls did not provide enough money.

IN THE MIDDLE

With

Dan Whittle

I recently received two letters from a friend who related thoughts with such feeling and compassion they are worth passing along to others. Before dealing with the letters it should be noted the man was stricken four years ago with an oftentimes incurable and fatal disease.

His first letter began:

"My friend:

"As you well know progress in a person's life is hindered at various times and oftentimes we never understand the reasons. Happiness is the same at times. Regardless of the setbacks, though, one must continue to live as happily as possible and adjust to those things that tend to be upsetting.

"My inability to adjust to my health situation in the beginning proved this point to me. But I finally realized, just before it was too late, I must accept and acknowledge my problem.

"Not once in the beginning did I show my wife I had the strength to adapt and live our life the best possible way.

"Once I did begin making adjustments, such as not working, socializing, etc., our relation returned to near normal."

He continued the letter and elaborated about some of the more personal aspects of his family situation. It was apparent he had the situation well in hand.

He began his second letter:

"My sister was over last night. She and Bill (her husband) have again separated. It just doesn't seem they will ever be able to settle down together. It's a damn shame. They are good persons.

"It seems he drinks too much and at the same time she is to demanding. Some compromising must come before either have any degree of happiness.

"Bill (a mutual friend) was by to see me last week. His promotion at the office did not come through. He was really disappointed, and in my estimation rightfully so. He has given his all, so to speak, to the company. I guess his age was against him. He is really disappointed. He also mentioned his wife is expecting again. Maybe old Bill is more perky than his company though.

"Speaking of infants, Mae and I also are striving to bring new life into the world. It may have already happened, for I have never seen her more radiant. Of course, it could be the weather."

My friend continued, speaking of additional problems of mutual friends.

It was in the concluding paragraph he said he was going to live.

"Oh, yes. I must include in this letter something of a miracle for Mae and myself. The doctor finally informed me last month my disease has been arrested, at least temporarily if not permanently. Time will tell. We both feel a miracle has happened for us and there is real hope."

My friend had cancer. In the beginning it was thought he could not win the battle for life.

STATE SCIENTISTS FIGHT POLLUTION IN MISSOURI

Nine and a half billion pounds of solid waste are disposed of one way or another by Americans each day. Much of it finds its way into rivers and streams, and Missouri is no exception.

Few Americans are lucky enough to drink water that somebody else has not used for other purposes upstream. Missouri is fortunate in that none of its rivers are named in President Nixon's advisory commission on Population Growth and the American Future as one of the nation's filthiest rivers.

But what about next year? Or the year after?

Missourians are concerned, and many are fighting the problem. Dr. Coy G. McNabb and several of his colleagues are taking steps to save Missouri's waters, as McNabb puts it, from becoming another "Lake Erie."

McNabb, extension professor of agricultural economics at the University of Missouri (Columbia), has been concerned about water pollution for many years, and says the College of Agriculture has been fighting the problem for nearly two years.

"Creating awareness of the problem" is a first step, McNabb said. Increasing population and affluence account for much of the water pollution problem. The more consumption, the more waste. Technological advances have placed the American in a position where he figuratively might drown in his own affluence (or effluence).

Industrial, metropolitan and sewage wastes are not the only causes of pollution, in fact they don't constitute half of the pollution problem because they are at least partially broken down before being discharged into streams and rivers.

Soil erosion, pesticides, fertilizer and waste from confinement feed lots make up a major part of the state's pollutants. Not only are they raw materials when dumped into he waterways, but they are geographically spread around the state and contaiminated almost all waters.

The price to combat what essentially might be self-destruction is high, McNabb warns, but the choice is a clear-survival.

The College of Agriculture extension division is off to a start in creating awareness of the pollution problem as a first step in stopping pollution. The State Water Pollution Board has helped in his endeavor. The College of Agriculture issues regular guides, bulletins and newsletters to inform and instruct farmers and persons interested in stopping pollution hazards.

Regular meetings are held throughout the state to give people an opportunity to discuss possible solutions. Field staffs have been organized in every county in the state to distribute publications and offer advice when asked. Agricultural engineers are involved in owrking out designs to perfect feedlots which will reduce water pollution. The evolution of hard surface feedlots for confining and feeding cattle and other livestock scientifically has led to he practice of washing wastes from the livestock off the lot into nearby ditches and eventually into streams and rivers.

Reaction by farers to the University's pollution control efforts has been favorable. Half a dozen meetings have been held throughout the state in the last few months and six more are scheduled.

As yet no new legislation has been introduced to regulate crop production, setting fertilizing dates or restricting feed lot sewage disposal methods. The University is interested in protecting the farmer, McNabb says: "If we set up real stringent regulations, we greatly hamper this part of our economy."

If interest in the meetings and the publications is a sign, farmers are definitely interested in doing their part in combatting the pollution problem, just as they have been in so many other conservation efforts

McNabb and his colleagues are pleased with the response. "We are meeting a real need," he says, and, because pollution is getting worse every day at an accelerated rate, "we have to do a good job."

Need for Feedlot Act Under Study

JEFFERSON CITY — In action taken at the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation's 1970 commodity conference, a recommendation was made to determine if a feedlot registration act should be introduced in the next general session of Missouri legislature.

It was agreed that MFBF should work with the University of Missouri college of agriculture, state commodity organizations, and other agencies to set guidelines to prevent water and air pollution by feedlots if such a legislation is necessary.

Some 100 commodity leaders met in various commodity interest groups to formulate recommendations and guidelines for Missouri Farm Bureau to follow for a more effective commodity program.

Committees represented include livestock, dairy, poultry, field crops, and fruits and vegetables.

Committees are composed of Farm Bureau members producing the respective crops nd advisory members from the UMC college of agriculture and extension division, the Missouri department of agriculture, the American Farm Bureau Federation, and other state commodity organizations.

The fruits and vegetables committee believes that more research is needed to establish facts before banning certain pesticides and herbicides used on growing crops. They recommended establishing means of combating emotional outbreaks by the public brought about by publicity toward the use of certain pesticides not substantiated by accurate facts.

It is believed by the livestock committee that the beef cattle industry in Missouri has great potential for expansion. They believe that Missouri should strive to become the number two state in the nation in the production of feeder calves -- beef and dairy.

The dairy committee urged MFBF to cooperate with the Missouri Department of Agriculture in developing standards for milk other than Grade A that would comply with USDA standards. They further stated they believe the age for clean test on official calfhood vaccination for brucellosis should remain at 30 months.

A bonding and licensing law for grain dealers was recommended by the field crops committee. They also advocated grain bank operations be covered under this law.

The poultry committee asked that Farm Bureau help in getting needed changes in turkey grading and inspection and inssuance of producer grade certificates.

All committes agreed that MFBF support those commodity organizations which are initiating petitions for referendum leading toward formation of merchandising councils.

301 City Car Licenses Issued

NEW MADRID — City collector Jack Long said today 361 automobile licenses have been issued and deadline for purchase of stickers is 5 p.m. Monday. Annual sales average about 700.

Automobile owners are required to display the 1970 license after Monday.

City Marshall O. E. Householder said roadblocks will be set up to check on licenses and automobile owners, who do not have a license displayed will be subject to arrest and fine.

Licenses cost $5.25 for all vehicles and are available at the city collector's office.

Hearnes Tells Of Importance Of Farming

JEFFERSON CITY -- Agriculture's importance to Missouri was highlighted in Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' proclamation of February as "Missouri Farm Bureau Month."

Hearnes noted that Missouri continues to be one of the nation's leading agricultural states with marketing receipts form Missouri agricultural products exceeding a billion dollars annually.

Calling attention to the valuable personal contributions of Missouri farmers to their government as citizens, Gov. Hearnes recognized the use of farmers' influence through their Farm Bureau organization to improve community environment and to encourage good government. He also recognized that Farm Bureau members believe in, practice, and support principles dedicated to the preservation of a Christian nation.

Missouri Farm Bureau President C.R. "Dick" Johnston, a Springfield dairyman, said the special month will be busy for most of the county Farm Bureaus across the state. Many will be holding special membership drives and livestock dinners in recognition of the importance of the industry in their county.

Last year, Johnston said, Missouri Farm Bureau ended its membership year with 47,038 members, with every county Farm Bureau in the state reaching or surpassing its quota. MFBF's goal for 1970 is 50,000 members.

"In today's rural - urban population balence," Johnston said, "the individual farmer can no longer stand alone in such areas as marketing and legislation concerning agriculture. We must face our problems together, as a unified organization of Farm Bureau farmers."

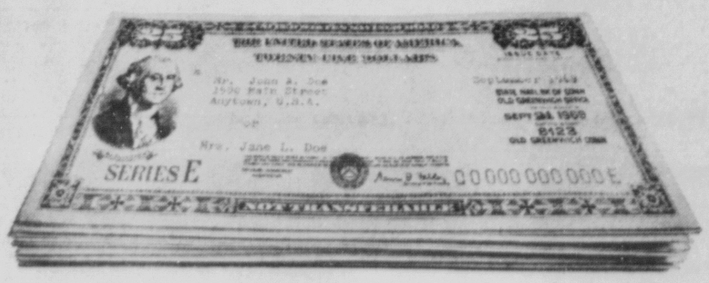
Now all your U.S. Savings Bonds pay higher interest.



Now it's official.

Now one of the safest investments in the world brings you new and higher returns.

Now your U.S. Savings Bonds pay the highest interest in history: a full 5 per cent when held to maturity of 5 years and 10 months. (4% the first year; 5.20% thereafter to maturity.) Previously, these Bonds earned you only 4¼% if you held them for seven years.

The new interest began June 1, 1969. So all of the Bonds you own, no matter when you bought them, have been collecting higher interest since that time.

Those Bonds are still replaced if lost, stolen or burned.

You can still buy them through Payroll Savings or the Bond-a-Month plan.

Regardless of your other investments, can you think of any easier, better, or safer way to build a nest egg for yourself?

It's nice to know that you are doing a little something for Uncle Sam, too. The $52 billion in U.S. Savings Bonds now outstanding in the hands of millions of Americans go a long way toward keeping your country financially strong.

There never was a better time to take stock in America.

There's a man at the place where you work who can start you on the Payroll Savings Plan right now.

UNITED STATES SAVINGS BONDS

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

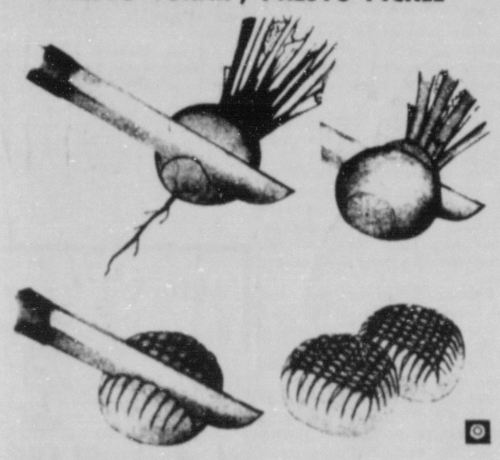
PRESTO TURNIP, PRESTO PICKLE



To make Presto pickles from Presto turnips, wash the turnips after pulling them, cut off roots and stems squarely. Then make criss-cross cuts, as shown, on one of the cut surfaces. These permit quicker penetration of the vinegar.

From Japan comes a new, very small turnip that can not only be grown in your garden but also made into the speediest pickle you ever tried.

The name of the turnip is Presto because it matures so fast. It is ready for pickling within a month after seeds are sown! The pickle also is called Presto because it can be made overnight!

In Japan seeds of this turnip are sown from February until March. Gardeners in the mid-South can follow the same schedule. But Presto will not grow in either very hot or very cold climates.

Once the turnips have reached pickling size, the rest is easy. Pull the turnips, wash them and cut off, squarely, the roots and the stems. Then make criss-cross cuts over one of these cut surfaces. The cross-hatching allows quicker penetration of the vinegar used in pickling.

Soak the cut turnips for 30 minutes to an hour in a brine of 1 tablespoon of salt to 2-2/3 cups of water. Remove at the end of that time and soak overnight or longer in a solution of 5 tablespoons of vinegar and 2-1/2 tablespoons of sugar. The amounts of salt and sugar may be adjusted to suit your taste.

Serve the Presto pickles as a side dish or as an hors d'oeuvre. Bits of red hot pepper or pimento mixed with the turnips set off their appearance and give a tangy taste.

"Try not to think of me as a back-seat driver, dear. Think of me as a co-pilot."

If You Were the Judge

Life Insurance Pays For Death in Crime

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Elmer Meek was a genial and unaggressive individual who, during the working hours, kept his nose to the grindstone. But at night, as if he had guzzled an evil potion, he came a one man crime wave by holding up members of the community. Unfortunately for Elmer, however, he was a bit of a stutterer, nd before he could fully get out "Your money or your life!" his intended victim shot and killed him.

Unabashed, the administrator of Elmer's estate thereafter filed a claim to collect under Elmer's life insurance policy.

"You have more nerve than Elmer had, " responded a representative of the insurance company. "Elmer was killed while committing a hold - up. And you want to collect on his life policy? It's ridiculous! It would also be against public policy to permit someone to benefit from his crimes."

"It may sound ridiculous to you," retorted the administrator, "but not to me. Since your policy says nothing about excluding payment if death occurs during the commission of a crime, as administrator of Elmer's estate, I'm entitled to collect under he policy."

Whereupon, the administrator took his claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the insurance company pay out on the policy?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that in the absence of a provision in a life insurance policy excluding payment if death occurs while committing a crime, payment must be made. And, concluded the judge, payment is not against public policy since, if the possibility of death did not deter Elmer from his nightlife of crime, surely the failure of benefits to his creditors and loved ones would not have deterred him either.

HONORS FOR THE KIDS

FRANKFORT, Ky (AP) Kentucky schoolchildren can boast a status almost equal to their parents on honorary awards.

Agnew Says American People Need Not Be Fooled by Masochists

BALTIMORE (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says his 25-day trip to Asia convinced him U.S. prestige is high and it 'it is time for the American people to stop eating themselves up over the few malcontented words of dissidents who don't know what is going on in the world."

Speaking to 1,000 friends and political supporters from both parties at a testimonial dinner Friday night, the vice president said the trip reinforced his belief that "what we have in the United States is not a prime operating target for national masochism.

"The regard that the United States is held in the rest of the world," he added, "is something that every American should have a chance to see, and something that I would hope more American conveyors of information would see fit to portray."

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Feb. 2, the 33rd day of 1970. There are 332 days left in the year.

This is ground hog day. If the ground hog emerges and sees his shadow, the winter will be a long one.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1848, Mexico signed a treaty with the United States, agreeing to cede a vast area for payment of $15 million. Included was what is now Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

On this date:

In 1535, the Argentine city of Buenos Aires was founded.

In 1635, New Amsterdam (now New York) was incorporated by the Dutch.

In 1870, doctors disclosed that the so-called "Cardiff" giant—discovered on a farm near Cardiff, N.Y.—was not a petrified man but a hoax.

In 1876, eight baseball teams banded together to organize the National League.

In 1943, Radio Berlin acknowledged the end of the World War II battle of Stalingrad. More than half a million Germans had been killed or wounded.

In 1961, 600 passengers aboard the hijacked Portuguese liner "Santa Maria," landed at Recife, Brazil.

Ten years ago — the French National Assembly gave President Charles de Gaulle power to rule by decree to solve the Algerian problem.

Five years ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson sent his special assistant, McGeorge Bundy, to South Vietnam to reassess the situation in the war-torn country.

One year ago — French President Charles de Gaulle announced a national referendum on a plan to reorganize government control.

Thanks for Ditty Bags Servicemen Write

NEW MADRID — Servicemen in Vietnam who received Christmas ditty bags through the New Madrid County chapter of the American Red Cross have written letters of appreciation to persons who helped in the annual project.

Mrs. G. H. Fairless, Kewanee, received a letter from staff sergeant Freddie Brown Jr. on behalf of adviser team 33, in which he wrote:

"I'm writing a letter of thanks for the Xmas package that I received, not just a letter of thanks from me, but I want to let you know that everyone of us, over here, appreciate what the wonderful people back in the States are doing for us.

"At the present time I am an adviser to the Vietnamese 8th A.R.V.N. calvary. My job isn't a bad one, but it does get a bit tiresome at times. Also I miss my family very much.

"This is my second tour over here, so once I leave this time, I'm hoping not to come back anymore."

"Again I want to thank all of you that made the gifts possible; also we appreciate the thoughtfulness and understanding that you (the majority group) have shown us. It is Americans like you that make us proud to be Americans."

Frank C. Boyd, a member of adviser team 26, wrote Miss Marguerite Dawson, New Madrid:

"I was the happy recipient of your Christmas gift- I would like to take time out from my duties to thank you for making my Christmas day a little brighter. It is people like you that makes this world of ous joyful to live in. All the men on my team did receive a gift and we were just like a bunch of kids on Christmas day.

"I've been over here since July last year and hope to return home in five months."

Field director John B. Roberts of the American Red Cross with the First Air Cavalry division in Vietnam acknowledged receipt of 67 ditty bags from New Madrid county Red Cross chapter in good condition and on time. The ditty bags were distributed to units December 24 for delivery to Skytroopers on Christmas day.

He wrote: "Please be assured that this is a worthwhile project and greatly appreciated by the military. Considerable interest has been generated in Project 69, as the convoys brought the conex containers to our forward areas from division rear.

"We, here, my staff and the officers and skytroopers of the First Air Cavalry Division are very proud of your fine chapter volunteers and staff for all your efforts and most thankful of the generosity of the willing donors."

THE PENNEY STORY

"The best darn values in the country"

By ROBERTA NASH

My first job, when I came to Penney's, was to learn about the company by talking with its people. My notes contain the things they said. I wish it were as easy to describe the people.

My frustrated typewriter writes words like pride . . . honor . . . dedication . . . esprit de corps . . . enthusiasm.

That last word sends me back to my notes. A store manager who said, "You'll find we're quite a bunch. The thing we have in common is our enthusiasm—to give the public the best darn values in the country." (Only he used a more enthusiastic word than darn.)
